Sam Beckett Given Nobel in Literature

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Samuel Beckett, the Irish-born playwright of the absurd, was declared the winner of the 1969 Nobel Prize for literature today.

The Swedish Academy said the 63-year-old author who has lived for years in France and wrote in both English and French was awarded the $72,800 prize for "his writing which, in new forms for the novel and drama, acquires its elevation from the destitution of modern man."

Among his most popular plays put on in the United States were "Waiting for Godot" and "Endgame." In the latter the characters played their roles sitting in trash cans.

Beckett was considered a dark horse this year, while the French-language favorites before the award included Andre Malraux, novelist Claude Simon, playwright Eugene Ionesco, novelist Vladimir Nabolov and Leopold Senghor, the president-poet of Senegal in Africa.

Among Beckett's fiction works as a pioneer of modern drama are "Malloy" and "Malone Muert" and "Linnomable." In Paris, Beckett's publisher, Editions de Minuit, said the author is in Tunisia and could not be contacted. It added that he was not due back for about a month.

The publishing house head, Jerome Lyndon, said Beckett probably would learn of the award through radio news broadcasts or newspapers.

"I am very happy for this kind of consecration which will contribute to making the works of Beckett known, but I know very well that it is something he would not have wanted," Lyndon said.

Asked if it is possible that Beckett would follow Sartre's road and reject the prize, Lyndon replied: "This would be as contrary to his modest character, as to accept it. But I cannot imagine Beckett going to Stockholm to receive his prize and making a speech. He has never done that in his life. He has never given an interview and never spoken in public."

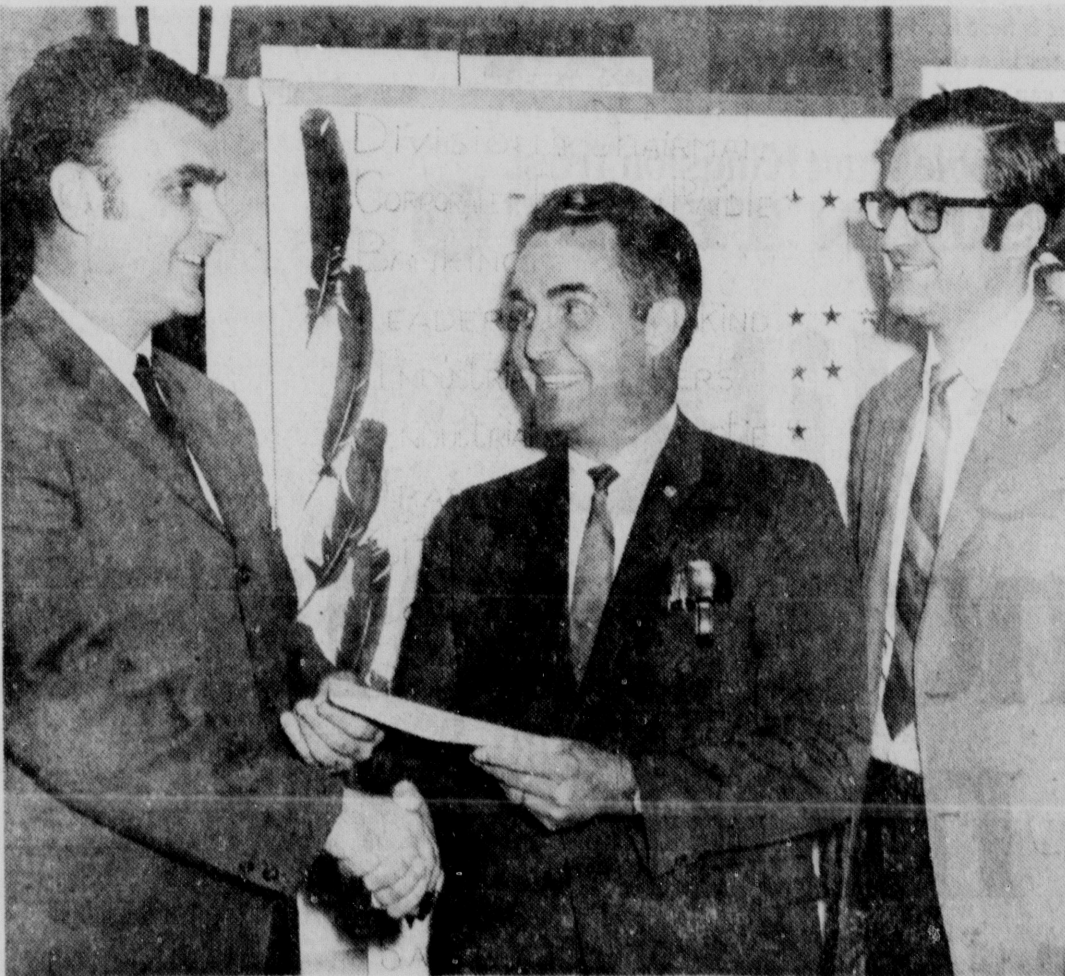

Few have been as versatile as Beckett who, besides his famous stark and black humor-laden plays of human misery, has produced novels, short stories, poems and essays with equal fluent talent.

"Part of the essence of Beckett's outlook is to be found ... in the difference between easily acquired pessimism, that rests content with untroubled skepticism, and a pessimism that is deeply bought and which penetrates to mankind's utter destitution," the secretary of the Swedish Academy, Dr. Karl Ragnar Gierow, commented.

"A combination of paradox and mystery, containing a love of mankind that grows in understanding as it plumbs further into the depths of abhorrence, a courage of despair, a compassion that has to reach the utmost bounds of suffering to discover that there are no bounds of charity."

"From that position, in the realms of annihilation, the writing of Samuel Beckett rises like a misere from all mankind, its muffled minor key sounding liberation to the oppressed and comfort to those in need," Gierow said.

Giving the Lions Share

The Kingston Lions Club presented a check to the Ulster County Community Chest drive for $2,200 this week, the largest contribution to date from any Ulster County service club. Anthony Triulzi (L), associate campaign chairman, accepts the check from Thomas W. Henebery, Lions Club president, as Francis Kugleman, second vice-president of the Lions Club and Chest public relations chairman, looks on. Robert T. Brown, Chest chairman, noted that the Lions have given more than money to the campaign. More than 30 of their members are active volunteer workers. (Wagenfahr photo)

Snow, Winds, Cold

Early Winter in County

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON

Untimely snows and record-breaking deep freeze temperatures hit Ulster County a mid-autumn blow overnight with wintry winds expected to continue through today.

In Kingston flurries were recorded at 11:30 p. m. Wednesday while the mercury plummeted to a shivery 26 degrees. The plunge broke a previous low record of 28 degrees recorded on the date in 1944.

Snow flurries and gusty winds were reported from all areas of Ulster County with brief accumulations in scattered areas including Accord.

Belleayre Ski Center did not quite match Gore Mountain's five inches of early snow. However, a promising dusting of skier's manna coated the mountaintop this morning as temperatures hovered at 20 degrees.

Just over the border in Delaware County, four inches of snow was reported at Margaretville.

Elsewhere in the state, slippery road conditions and freezing temperatures gave north country residents an undue preview of wintry things to come. Old icebox center, Boonville in the south central Adirondacks, received four inches of snow and 15 degree temperatures. Watertown and Niagara County reported two inches and Massena and Plattsburgh, one inch of snow.

Snow accumulations in the state are well ahead of schedule. According to Dr. A. Boyd Pack of the state climatologist's office the snow and cold are "quite a bit earlier than normal."

Norwood Locke of the Kingston City Engineer's office said that although flurries have been recorded in October, measurable snowfall usually comes in November's wake. The exception was Oct. 26, 1958 when a quarter of an inch of snow was recorded. Last year's first snow fell Nov. 11 and 12 when seven inches accumulated in the two-day period.

The Hudson Valley area, spared from the pre-winter accumulations, apparently will be missed by today's light snow activity which the U.S. Weather Bureau puts north and west of the valley. Temperatures will continue their wintry ways, however, with the mercury expected to dip into the low-teens tonight. There is slim hope of more seasonal temperatures by the weekend.

Lebanon Is Invaded By Arab Guerrillas

By United Press International

A force of 650 Arab guerrillas invaded Lebanon from Syria at three points today and kidnaped a score of Lebanese soldiers before they were driven back with tank and rocket fire. Fighting broke out in refugee camps between Lebanese security forces and Palestinian refugees.

It was Lebanon's worst political and international turmoil since the nation achieved independence 26 years ago and it plunged the Arab world into a major crisis that for the moment overshadowed the continuing Arab-Israeli conflict.

Arab guerrillas struck again today in Israel's port city of Haifa, blowing up a fifth apartment building and killing a woman, the second death in two days. Israeli planes retaliated by bombing and strafing attacks against Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon.

Israeli planes also struck Egyptian artillery positions along the Suez Canal after a night of cross-canal artillery duels. Egypt said its planes hit Israeli bases in the Sinai Desert during the night but Israel called it a harmless effort to hit the Nahal Yam settlement and there were no damages or casualties.

Students boycotted classes in Beirut today and called for a major demonstration against Lebanese army efforts to halt guerrilla attacks from Lebanon into Israel — and thus prevent massive Israeli retaliation. Demonstrations Wednesday forced the resignation of Premier Rashid Karami.

A bomb exploded near the U.S. Embassy, but there was no damage.

The Arab world was angry at Lebanon, a half Christian, half Arab nation that managed to stay out of the wars with Israel. There was a gigantic anti-Lebanon demonstration in Damascus today in the second day of demonstrations in other Arab capitals.

A Lebanese military communiqué said the invasion forces which penetrated Lebanon a distance of two miles wore military uniforms with Arab head dress. Most were thought to be guerrillas but Syrian army troops were believed among them.

The Guerrilla Movement Alarms Moscow and Arabs

LONDON (UPI) — Moscow and Arab governments are alarmed by the rapid growth and increasing aggressiveness of the Arab guerrilla movement.

Neither the Kremlin nor Arab rulers can deny formal support for the guerrillas as a "liberating" fighting force against Israel.

Neither can they ignore the threat to their own interests looming in the commando movement's rapid expansion and its appeal to Arab youth, the sources said.

Russia is especially uneasy over the guerrilla situation because of the problems it could soon pose for the Kremlin.

The guerrillas are not pro-Russian. Essentially they are strong nationalists—sometimes anti-Russian. They are not bound by any wider political commitments.

Many are Chinese orientated. Some have, in effect, been trained in Communist China. Guerrillas are being supplied with Chinese arms and Peking has pledged its open support for their anti-Israeli ventures.

The guerrillas also have no ties to armistices or United Nations agreements.

Moscow has no controlling hand over their actions as it has, for instance, in Egypt, where Russia's entire Middle East position is largely anchored.

Communist diplomats have made little secret of their growing fear the commandos or their radical supporters might attempt to overthrow current Arab regimes in the Middle East.

Jordan is rated the ripest of the Arab nations for guerrilla pressure but it is presently outside the Kremlin's sphere of influence.

The Communist diplomats made clear that Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser has been and remains the Russians' key Middle East supporter, whom the Kremlin has lavished well over $3 billion in aid.

Although the Palestinian guerrillas represent no direct threat to Nasser, their impact in Egypt and on the country's radical forces has been on the increase, the sources said.

Nixon Backs Proposal by Laird

WASHINGTON (AP) — A unilateral cease-fire action by the United States now seems unlikely in view of statements by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, but the Nixon administration is reported looking into other possibilities of bringing about a halt in the Vietnam fighting.

Statements by high officials indicate that if President Nixon decides to take some cease-fire initiative, he will require assurances that the enemy will cooperate.

Nixon, it is believed, could either issue a general cease-fire call or propose that limited cease-fire areas be worked out, perhaps around major population centers or in specified geographical areas of South Vietnam.

Nixon has been under pressure from some Senate leaders in recent weeks to order U.S. forces to stop shooting in the hope that North Vietnamese and Viet Cong leaders will follow suit. The President is expected to react to the senatorial urging in a speech on Vietnam Nov. 3—if not sooner.

Laird said Wednesday he does not believe a unilateral cease-fire would be a successful approach to ending the conflict without some firm assurances from the other side that it would go along.

White House Press Secretary

official and a close adviser to the President on Vietnam, and was reflecting the view of the Defense Department.

Ziegler did not say what other views have entered into current Vietnam policy discussions. It is understood, however, some members of the U.S. negotiating team at the Paris peace talks have advocated serious consideration of a new cease-fire proposal, and the possibility has been discussed in the State Department.

Nixon proposed in a Vietnam policy speech last May that cease-fire arrangements under international supervision should be part of a war-settlement package.

But a proposal of a cease-fire as an end in itself—a means of stopping combat while efforts for a settlement continue—would mark a departure from U.S. policy as outlined by both the Johnson and Nixon administrations.

Officials in both administrations have argued a cease-fire in a war with no fixed front would be extremely difficult to carry out.

They also have contended the major U.S. purpose since the peace talks started has been not just to end the fighting but to make peace.

Moratorium Hailed

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnamese negotiator Xuan Thuy said today demonstrations against President Nixon's Vietnam policies have a "positive effect" on the Vietnam peace conference and could help break the continuing deadlock.

He hailed last Wednesday's Vietnam Moratorium Day as the genuine voice of the American people and pledged his government's support for further antiwar rallies.

He spoke at the 39th meeting of the conference where both he and the Viet Cong accused Nixon of stepping up the fighting in Vietnam.

Thuy also accused the United States of extending the war to Laos. As he did, a dispatch from the Laotian capital of Vientiane reported North Vietnam had sent more troops into Laos and they and the Communist Pathet Lao had opened a major new drive against towns wrested from the Communists in fighting last summer.

Chief American negotiator Henry Cabot Lodge said it was Communist refusal to negotiate and not Washington policy that was obstructing progress toward a negotiated settlement.

Xuan Thuy, North Vietnam's chief negotiator, said the United States had resumed the bombing of North Vietnam and extended the war to Laos.

The Vietnam News Agency said Wednesday in a broadcast heard in Tokyo that U.S. fighter-bombers attacked several populated areas of Nghe An, Quang Binh and Na Tinh Province in the southern panhandle. The bombing was halted last Nov. 1 as a peace move.

Gmeiner Disillusioned

Rhinebeck Hopeful--A Lonely Feeling

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — If the Democratic candidate for Town Supervisor here sounds slightly disillusioned, he thinks he has adequate grounds.

Paul Gmeiner was nominated for the position when he was out of town, and feels that he has received next to no support since that date, almost two months ago.

'Not Actually Running'
When asked for information on his platform this week, Gmeiner said that he was "not actually running," and cited this lack of support as the primary reason.

"I have not had one phone call since my nomination of a congratulatory nature, or offering help in a campaign," he said to The Freeman. "I want to run for the Democratic Party, not the Gmeiner Party."

Some backing for Gmeiner's claim was observed first-hand by this reporter at the Rhinebeck Town Democratic Organizational meeting in late August. Notices had been sent to several dozen persons, but only three showed up.

"You may think I sound a little bitter," said the former Town Democratic chairman, "Well I am." He asserts that the race is strictly a battle of personalities, not qualifications.

Gmeiner also claims that there is no true two-party system in Rhinebeck. "The Republicans and Conservatives took a blood oath 10 years ago, and nothing will break it," he claims.

In the Town of Rhinebeck in 1969 there were 1,546 Republicans, 643 Democrats, 80 Conservatives, and 34 Liberals among the total of 2,739 registered voters.

Gmeiner cites many townspeople as playing Republican because "it is good for business." He recounted handing out posters for Democratic candidates for District Attorney Bernard Kessler to many businesses throughout the town this week.

"When I walked through the streets tonight," he said Wednesday, "I couldn't find one poster still in the window."

While Gmeiner's opponent, Republican William Allen, has been actively campaigning, sending out releases, and ringing doorbells, Gmeiner has contented himself with attempting to help countywide candidates and Democratic candidates for District Five Representative Robert Smith of Bar-rytown and Thomas Hayes of Rhinebeck.

Ed Gumienny, Democratic candidate for town councilman, is also actively seeking the position.

Woman Charged With Larceny

TOWN OF ULSTER

A 19-year-old Suffolk County woman was arrested at 8:10 p.m. Wednesday charged with petit larceny, after she was accused of the theft of merchandise at Big Scot's Department Store.

Security Officer Herbert O'Brien reported that Nancy Martin of 21 Oak Tree Lane, Huntington, L. I., pleaded guilty before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan. She was given an unconditional discharge with no specific penalty being imposed.

O'Brien, who was assisted by State Trooper E. A. Zeboris, said the woman had two mini-skirts and a package of cold tablets in her possession when picked up. The merchandise, valued at $15.87, was recovered.

Saugerties—Defense, Challenge

SAUGERTIES

Defending the recently approved contract between the village and its nine patrolmen, Teamsters' Union Local president Anthony Alecca challenged a recent statement by a village councilman that the dental and optical plan of the contract is "unworkable."

Councilman Maurice Clements was quoted Tuesday by village clerk James Gage as having abstained from the Monday council vote on the contract because, in Gage's words, Clements "didn't think the optical and dental plan was workable."

Alecca said the plan for employee participation in optical and dental protection as a cost of $99 per year for each worker paid by the village is "highly workable" and that the union membership—including more than 10,000 members in the seven county mid-Hudson area—are completely satisfied with the plan.

Speaking through the union's business agent, Donald MacCollam, Alecca said the councilman "didn't fully understand the workability of the plan, or he wouldn't have said that."

Calling the plan a "sound and economic idea," the local's president said employees save "several hundred dollars" in medical bills through the plan.

The contract, under negotiation for the past six months, was approved unanimously by the village, with the exception of Clements who abstained and fellow councilman Charles Steele who was not present for the vote.

Ohayo Mt. Bungalow Burns to Ground

WEST HURLEY

Flames swept a one-story two-room bungalow on Ohayo Mountain Road in this community Wednesday night.

The fire was reported to Woodstock fire officials at about 7:45 p.m. and on arrival of Company 1 in charge of Chief Duncan Wilson firemen found the frame structure engulfed in flames. A call to local fire officials was received at 1:50 p.m. after it was determined the blaze was in the West Hurley district.

The building, located about three-quarters of a mile off the highway, burned to the ground. The origin of the blaze was not determined.

Fire officials said the bungalow was owned by Harold Semmel of Flushing, and it had been leased to Jerrold Schultz, whose address was listed as Box 755, Ohayo Mt. Road.

West Hurley firemen in charge of Second Asst. Chief

Frank Rafaldi went to the scene with two pumps and a brush truck, which is equipped with brooms and other items used to fight woods fires. Woodstock Fire Co. 1 responded to a call with a pumper and a brush wagon.

Meanwhile, in Kingston while putting out a fire in his vehicle on the Boulevard shortly after 1:15 a.m. today, Donald Evans of the Town of Olive, received burns of the left middle finger. He was treated at the scene by firemen who had responded to a telephone report treatment of burns. Fire records noted the fire apparently

State Architects Meet in Ellenville

ELLENVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — The state commissioner of housing and community renewal says architects working on state-aided housing programs will receive an increase in fees averaging 10 per cent.

Commissioner Charles J. Urstadt addressed the annual convention of the New York State Association of Architects here Wednesday. He said the fee hike was the result of tight money and higher building costs and land prices.

The fee increase, the first since 1967, will range from 8 to 15 per cent, he said, depending on the size of the housing project.

Red Hook Group Elects 8 to Board

RED HOOK recreation complex* by 1972, were also discussed by the board, representing 300 family memberships and 200 members with "partial status."

A year ago this month, the park members approved the signing of a $115,000 Farmer's Home Administration loan to construct the main "L"-shape pool and allied facilities, including the bathhouse.

Winter activities that include ice skating and dancing as well as possibilities of winter swimming in a nearby indoor pool are also in the park's future.

A non-profit corporation, the park was started from a discussion of area recreation facilities at a Parent-Teacher Association meeting in November, 1966.

Total cost of the pool area of the 27.8-acre site had been given at $100,000. The figure was said to include parking lots, landscaping, as well as the bathhouse and snack bar facilities. A fund also was established at the outset of the park to install baseball diamonds and other sports equipment.

The park is designed for future use by all residents of the Red Hook School District with a fee charge for use of the swimming facilities. Eventual plans include a wide range of sports and game areas, tennis courts, putting greens and fishing as well as the presently planned facilities.

Thayer in Washington Pitch To Halt Smut Through Mails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harry M. Thayer, a New York State broadcasting executive, called Wednesday for legislation aimed at preventing the sending of pornography through the mails.

Thayer, chairman of Hudson-Westchester Radio, Inc., provided a house subcommittee with examples of what he described as pornographic mail.

"It is simply not enough to be told one can go to the post office and say they do not desire to receive such mail," said Thayer. "This does not work against the kind of purveyors that are in action in this day and age."

A mailer should be required under law to have a postal permit, Thayer said, issued only after examination of the material he wishes to mail.

He further recommended federal statutes be instituted to make it possible for the post office to determine the source from which a mailer derives its mailing list and that there be severe penalties for using one to mail what he called "despicable" literature.

As a result of complaints, Thayer said he began an editorial campaign broadcast by his radio station in Kingston, N.Y., against sex literature, which resulted in a collection of pornography which would fill "a station wagon."

Waving an issue of "Pleasure" which contained male and female nudes, Thayer said the most offensive part of the publication was the classified advertisements.

Thayer said he was informed in a letter from a White House staff member that legal action would be undertaken by the Justice Department, but that three months have elapsed and he has received two more issues of "Pleasure."

Thayer also read briefly from what he said was a homosexual publication which he submitted to the subcommittee.

"I am sure it is your desire, as it is mine, to prevent this from getting into the hands of innocent young people," Thayer said.

Special district allocations will total $38,770 instead of $35,060. These include the Rhinebeck, Rhinecliff, and Hillside fire protective districts, and Rhinecliff water and light districts.

Notable increases include $1,300 for election expenses, about $3,000 for bonds and interest, $5,500 for road improvements, $6,000 for road machinery.

Notable decreases include $1,200 in traffic signs and $5,000 in town dump expenses.

The estimated approximate change in tax rate per thousand for the town will be an increase of 68 cents, up to $5.81. In the village the change will be 21 cents, up to $1.72.

An Historical Tour

RHINEBECK In an attempt to preserve some of what local architect Richard Crowley calls the "character" of the Village of Rhinebeck, the Dutchess County Landmarks Association will conduct an informational tour of the village Saturday.

Members of the countywide group, which has several ambitious programs, will begin at the First National Bank at 2 p.m. and follow several routes with "five or six guides," according to Crowley. The tours will end at the Wells House with coffee and donuts.

The organization has previously announced that it is interested in "historical zoning" to preserve the unique flavor of the village, including some method of maintaining a harmony of architectural style, similar to that in Georgetown. The architecture is primarily late 19th century Victorian in Rhinebeck.

Local officials, as well as members of the Landmarks Association and any interested persons, are invited to take the tours.

Other programs currently under study by the group include a joint effort with a housing group in Poughkeepsie to preserve six blocks in the Models City area.

And the Landmarks Association also intends an intensive plaque program throughout the county to identify places of general historical interest. This phase has only recently been incorporated.

"The Landmarks Association will bear watching," said Crowley. "Many constructive things will be accomplished."

Agnew on Muskie---Example of Confused Thinking

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, keeping up his strongly worded attacks on administration critics, has accused Democratic Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of irresponsibly advocating a "Russian roulette" disarmament plan.

A spokesman said Agnew acted on his own, not on administration instructions, in challenging Muskie's proposal that the United States halt the testing of new, multiple-warhead strategic missiles for six months.

Agnew called the Muskie plan

"a classic example of confused thinking."

"I'm confused by his statement," countered Muskie. "I'm flattered by the attention."

"Who knows what Agnew means?" said Muskie, who ran for vice president a year ago and now is rated a front-rank prospect for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Agnew's statement was the latest in a series of strong attacks on those disagreeing with Nixon.

"Does he clear these things with the White House?" asked Republican Sen. Edward W.

Brooke of Massachusetts, who then admitted he didn't know the answer.

Muskie Tuesday proposed a unilateral U.S. cessation of the testing of multiple-warhead missiles as a step to stimulate arms control efforts.

Brooke is the chief sponsor of a resolution backed by 43 senators urging a U.S. Soviet moratorium on MIRV testing.

Brooke said he doesn't know whether the United States can afford the unilateral halt proposed by Muskie, but added "I certainly don't consider it an irresponsible proposal."

Agnew said in his Wednesday statement the United States has exercised restraint in stockpiling strategic arms, but Muskie "is not content with this nation keeping prudent pace."

"He wants it to slip backwards," Agnew said.

"No responsible person would propose that the President play Russian roulette with U.S. security," Agnew said. "Yet that is what Sen. Muskie did."

Criticism and defense continued to flow across the Senate floors Wednesday in the wake of Agnew's weekend attacks on Vietnam protesters as anarchists and grossly improper.

encouraged by "impudent snobs."

And another charge was leveled against the vice president, Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., accused Agnew of trying to put pressure on the Supreme Court in a Jackson, Miss., speech Monday.

Cranston quoted the vice president as saying President Nixon believes Mississippi officials have made a strong case for additional time to desegregate schools.

The Democratic senator said new's weekend attacks on Vietnam protesters as anarchists and grossly improper.

'Zodiac' Killer Calls Talk Show

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—A troubled man who said he was the "Zodiac" slayer of five persons pleaded for help, complained of headaches and cried out "I've got to kill!" during a two-hour of bizarre conversations Wednesday on a television talk show.

However, he failed to keep two surrender appointments with attorney Melvin Belli, who told the caller, "All of San Francisco wants to help you."

The hand is out, you can feel the hands out."

There also was a challenge issued to "Zodiac" from the brother of San Francisco cab driver Paul Stine. The cabbie was shot to death Oct. 11, and the killer mailed a piece of Stine's bloodied shirt with a boastful letter to a newspaper.

Stine's brother, Joe, 34, operator of a Modesto service station, issued an itinerary of his daily habits and challenged Zodiac to "come and get me."

Does Not Carry Weapons

"I don't carry weapons," said the 165-pound Army and Air Force veteran. "I don't feel need any. I was very close to Paul, and now I want a chance at his killer."

Capt. Martin Lee, chief of inspectors for the San Francisco Police Department, said the man who called the KGO-TV morning talk show and identified himself as "Sam," was "a person with a mental problem."

However, police said there was no way of telling whether or not he was the Zodiac slayer, who has bragged in cryptic notes of killing five persons in four separate attacks during the past 10 months.

"I need help," the caller said while viewers watched program host Jim Dunbar and Belli, whose presence was requested by the man. "I'm sick...I don't want to go to the gas chamber."

Belli, who defended Jack Ruby for the killing of presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, agreed to ask Dist. Atty. John Jay Fardon not to press for the death penalty. Fardon said later he could make no "promises or guarantees" other than a fair trial.

Makes 13 Calls

The man claiming to be Zodiac made 13 separate calls during the two-hour program, but police said none was long enough to be traced.

The weird conversations were broken off repeatedly by the caller, twice with strangled cries and once with the threat: "I'm going to kill those kids!"

At another point, he said, "I'm having one of my headaches now. I've got to kill! I've got to kill!" Then he hung up.

The caller made arrangements to meet Belli in nearby Daly City later Wednesday morning, but failed to show up. A second, secret meeting was scheduled for the afternoon—but again there was no sign of the man who said he is Zodiac.

Army Denies Viet Censoring

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has denied censoring news casts heard by U.S. fighting men in Vietnam and blames the affair on inexperienced GI broadcasters.

A report to Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, from the inspector general in Vietnam says "Public statements which service personnel are entitled to hear have not been banned or censored at AFVN—Armed Forces Networks in Vietnam."

Wylie requested the investigation after military newsmen in Saigon complained that even public statements by former Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford and South Vietnam Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky had been censored.

"Allegations by AFVN personnel regarding such actions have arisen through misunderstanding on the part of young and inexperienced broadcasters," said the inspector general's four-page report.

It said investigators questioned two enlisted men in Vietnam who had led the complaints and found them "young, inexperienced, impressionable and appear to be easily swayed by the 'attention' that they received from their colleagues in the civilian news media."

Wylie had forwarded to the Pentagon 10 instances cited by his constituent, SP5 Michael G. Maxwell.

"The decisions of the supervisory personnel with respect to each of the 10 separate unrelated news items were simple cases of judgment in accordance with the supervisors' understanding of their responsibilities . . .," said the report.

Maxwell and other GI newsmen still in Vietnam said in interviews "they had misused the term 'news management' and admitted they were, in fact, questioning the decision of their superiors as to what news items should be used," said the report.

Wylie described the report as "a fair and unbiased account."

A's far as I am concerned, the case is closed, unless further information comes to me that the recommendations are not being carried out," he said.

9 Ulster Communities Involved

A Consultant Goes, But the Plan Goes On

By SHANE CROSBY

KINGSTON Will the disbanding of the consulting firm that helped draft nine municipal zoning plans in Ulster County during the past nine years affect future planning?

The question was asked of officials of nine county towns and villages after it had been confirmed that the firm of Brown and Anthony City Planners of Ft. Lee, N.J., had closed its doors recently.

The firm was contracted by the communities to assist in the drafting of zoning ordinances and master plans for future development of the areas, a project that took an average of three years for each community.

Any future amendments or clarifications of the plans had been expected to be done in consultation with the firm that wrote the original plan, but towns and villages involved "see no problems" along those lines, according to a Freeman survey conducted this week.

Those Involved

Involved are the townships of Woodstock, Wawarsing,

Rosendale, Rochester, Marbletown, Hurley and New Paltz; and the villages of Rosendale and Ellenville.

All were assisted, in either a six community "701 plan" or on an individual basis, by Brown and Anthony since 1960. Robert Kren, an official of the planning firm, was the contact between Brown and Anthony and six of the nine communities.

Special

Throughout the development of the nine plans, the firm and the local boards involved emphasized that changes would have to be made as the plans were enacted.

Rumors circulated since the disbanding of the New Jersey firm contended that the communities would have "problems" with their plans and zoning ordinances now that their consultants are out of business.

A Denial

But both the communities and Kren himself denied this during the survey.

Kren, reached at his own firm (formed after the mid-summer close of Brown and Anthony), said he would be willing to assist any community that needed his services. Now a partner in the planning firm of Murphy and Kren, also in Fort Lee, N.J., he said "if any of the communities do need help, we as a firm will be willing to offer assistance."

He said the closing of Brown and Anthony, contracted for an average of $18,000 per community with the state and federal government paying most, had little to do with "city planning" operations.

The reason for the closing was said to be due to engineering projects that the firm was engaged in, and not the section of the firm that was engaged in planning and zoning.

All contracts between Brown and Anthony were completed by January, Kren said. Bankruptcy was not filed for or by the firm, but an informed source said employees had to file a lien against the firm to collect four weeks in back pay.

Comments from local officials on the situation included:

Wawarsing: Supervisor Frank Harkin said his Planning Board, still working on the proposed law, "haven't followed the (Brown and Anthony) outline in the total" and do not anticipate any problems where they would have to consult with the planning firm. "If we do get into any trouble, we would consult with the County Planning Board," he said.

Town of Rosendale: Supervisor Gerard DeFelice, while noting that "it is news to me," said any future consultation "would be on a free basis anyway — we will certainly take advantage of Mr. Kren's offer." DeFelice added that his township, also nearing the end of planning of a zoning ordinance, would consult with the other communities as well as the County Planning Board on future problems.

Rochester: "They (Brown and Anthony) did the job when they were here," said Supervisor Franklin S. Kelder, "that's what counts." Charging that "many people are using this situation to oppose zoning," Kelder said "it makes no difference" now that the consultation firm is closed. On the possibility of using Kren's services, Kelder said: "He is the one that did the major part of the work and has the first-hand information. He would be the man to see in the future."

Marbletown: Zoning Commission member Mrs. George

Numrich commented at a recent meeting that Kren had made a direct offer to that of the firm and added that Kren's offer of assistance is "ideal," he was directly involved in it.

Hurley: Supervisor Robert Schneller said of the end of the New Jersey firm: "Whether they're out of business or not, the plans are basically quite sound. I am sure adequate companies are available to help with it."

Very Valuable Help

The Brown and Anthony plan "was very valuable," said the Hurley supervisor. "It was meant as a guideline — local differences and problems must be incorporated into it." Saying he does not anticipate consultation problems, Schneller added "it is going to have bugs in it, of course," but noted that a new industry of consultants is forming in the nation to assist communities.

Ellenville: Village officials here have hired a White Plains firm, Raymond, May, Parish and Pine, to take over after the closing of Brown and Anthony. A village officer said the new firm is used "as needed, and not on a permanent basis."

Rosendale Village: Planning Board Chairman John O'Sullivan, commenting on the situation, said the village "would seek another consultant, if it was necessary." He said he was surprised to hear of the closing of the firm and added that Kren's offer of assistance is "ideal," he was directly involved in it.

Woodstock: Benjamin Webster, chairman of both the Woodstock Planning Board and the Ulster County Planning Board, commented that the break-up of Brown and Anthony "had no reflection on the section specializing in community planning. It was the engineering part of the corporation, and not the city planning section, that brought about the disbanding," he said.

Webster said Woodstock has not had the situation to call on the firm to any extent since Brown and Anthony completed summer.

the local zoning ordinance some five years ago. He added that "there are plenty of other planning firms we can call on now."

Town of New Paltz: The Brown and Anthony disbanding apparently does not affect New Paltz. According to Supervisor Anthony Moriello "in New Paltz we don't feel it." He said the town hired a Poughkeepsie consultant after Brown and Anthony completed its master plan for the community. James Sprat of Poughkeepsie works for the town "on a regular basis" with the Planning Board, he said. Some changes, a situation expected even at the outset, are being considered for the ordinance, he added, since being put on the books this past summer.

Nixon's Welfare Plan

On the face of it, President Nixon's plan to include the working poor for the first time in welfare programs seems fair. It is attractive enough to lead two in three persons polled by the Harris Survey to approve it.

Fortunately, however, the House Ways and Means Committee has begun a massive review of the nation's welfare programs, past, present and to come. We say, fortunately, for the review should bring out some of the effects of these programs both on the recipients and on the taxpayers.

For one thing, it is becoming clear that putting working poor on welfare is another name for a guaranteed annual income. Once the law says that every family will be guaranteed a living income—that figure has been raised from $3,000 to $3,500 in recent discussions—then the tax on the regular worker to maintain this huge new welfare roll will be such that the now marginally-employed will quit their jobs for a life of leisure at the guaranteed annual wage and others will have to work even harder to produce the wage for the nonworkers.

Nixon's idea was to force able-bodied to train for a job and to give them the difference between their earnings and a fixed wage. The first part of the idea, to train for work, is fine. Eventually, it would leave the welfare rolls for the old and disabled alone. But to put all who earn under a given sum on welfare is to invite on welfare many more millions who soon will quit their jobs because they would rather live on the minimum guaranteed wage without working, than for the little more they could earn.

It is to be hoped that the Ways and Means Committee will see through this pernicious idea and bury it along with any other guaranteed income plan that comes along. The life of the taxpayer is hard enough without this added burden.

'Sweet-Kill' for Rats

The government has banned the use of artificial sweeteners called cyclamates on the grounds that massive doses of the chemicals caused bladder cancer in rats. Food and drink companies as well as drug manufacturers have been caught with vast quantities of the now unusable stuff, both in the raw state and in the form of soft drinks and diet foods.

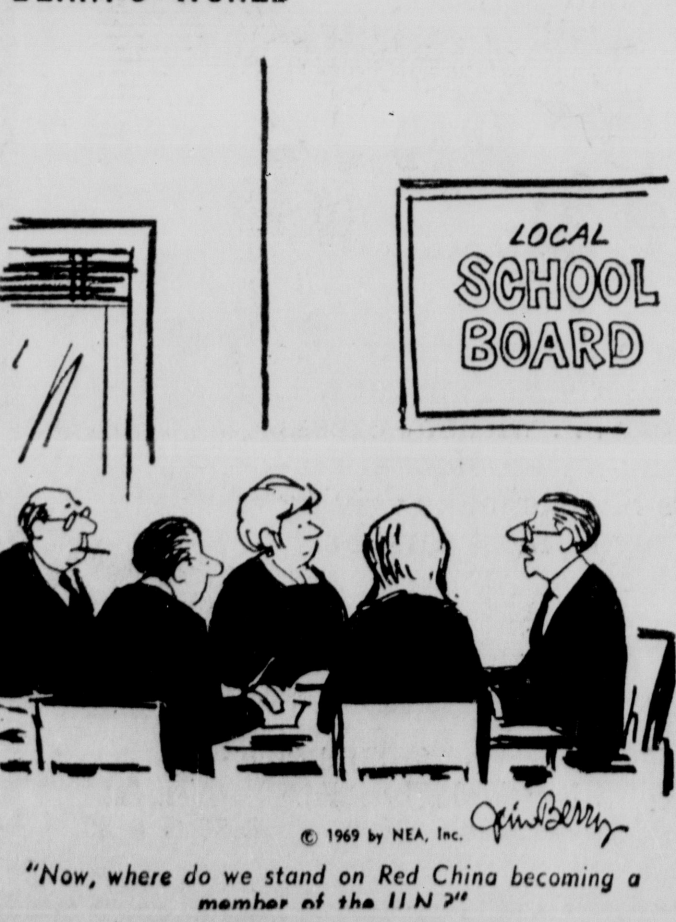

The government's right hand seldom knows what its left hand is doing, but perhaps here is one of those serendipitous opportunities where an action by one federal agency can be utilized to advantage by another.

Congress, after first treating the proposal as a joke, voted some months ago to fund a rat eradication program in the nation's cities. There have been few reports on the progress of the campaign. Presumably, in this particular rat race, too, man is still running a poor second.

If cyclamates cause bladder cancer in laboratory rats, it seems logical they would have a similarly deleterious effect on urbanized rodents. The idea at least suggests a way for cyclamate manufacturers and users to recoup their losses.

True, trying to persuade tenement rats to develop a taste for diet colas and low-calorie breakfast supplements would probably be a highly inefficient and uncertain method of implementing the will of Congress. But since when has anyone expected efficiency and certainty from government?

BERRY'S WORLD

"Now, where do we stand on Red China becoming a member of the UN?"

'Relax, We Haven't Lost a Father Yet!'

David Lawrence Says Judge Haynsworth Opposed Because of His Views

WASHINGTON — If ever there was a case of "character assassination" — as the term was used during Senate committee investigations in the 1950's — it is the attack which has been made on Judge Clement F. Haynsworth, who has been nominated by President Nixon to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

President Nixon is plainly displeased with accusations that have been leveled against a man whom he considers innocent of any wrongdoing. Were the President's comments — a most significant presentation made at a news conference here on Monday — widely distributed throughout the country? Mr. Nixon says that, having evaluated all of the allegations, he reaffirms "with even greater conviction" the support he has given Judge Haynsworth, and makes a pointed plea for fairness as follows:

"When a man has been through the fire, when he has had his entire life and his entire record exposed to the glare of investigation — which, of course, any man who is submitted for confirmation to the Senate should expect to have — and in addition to that, when he has had to go through what I believe to be a vicious character assassination, if after all that he stands up and comes through as a man of integrity, a man of honesty, and a man of qualifications, then that even more indicates that he deserves the support of the President of the United States who nominated him in the first place, and also the votes of the Senators who will be voting on his nomination." Mr. Nixon now has personally examined all the charges mentioned by opposing Senators. The President is particularly critical of those who say Judge Haynsworth's nomination should be withdrawn just because "a doubt has been raised," Mr. Nixon continues: "The appearance of impropriety, some say, is enough to disqualify a man who served as judge or in some other capacity. That would mean that anybody who wants to make a charge can thereby create the appearance of impropriety, raise a doubt, and that then his name should be withdrawn. That isn't our system. Under our system, a man is innocent until he is proven guilty."

The President declares that it is not proper to turn down a man just because he is a southerner or a Jew or a Negro or "because of his philosophy," and that the real question relates to what kind of lawyer he is and what his attitude is toward the constitution. Mr. Nixon contends that it is the duty of the Senators to take into consideration the following:

"Is he a man of integrity? Is he a man that will call the great cases that come before him as he sees them, and in this case will provide the balance that this great court needs? I think Judge Haynsworth does that."

Mr. Nixon reveals that some of his friends came to him a few weeks ago suggesting that he withdraw Judge Haynsworth's nomination because a doubt had been raised which would be politically difficult to handle. But the President made this observation: "I had to consider then whether because charges had been made without proof, and whether there was a doubt, whether I would then take upon my hands the destruction of a man's whole life, to destroy his reputation, to drive him from the bench and public service. I did not do so."

The President notes that if Judge Haynsworth's philosophy leans to the conservative side, this is in his favor, because the Supreme Court "needs balance." Mr. Nixon explains it this way: "I think that the court needs a man who is conservative — and I use the term not in terms of economics, but conservative, as I said of Judge Burger, conservative in respect of his attitude towards the Constitution."

"It is the Judge's responsibility, and the Supreme Court's responsibility, to interpret the Constitution and interpret the law, and not to go beyond that in putting his own socio-economic philosophy into decisions in a way that goes beyond the law, beyond the Constitution."

The President is right when he says that no man who has already served many years on a federal court bench should have to go through such a ordeal. The truth is the critics oppose Judge Haynsworth because of his views. They have raised the issue of honesty as a smokescreen in order to defeat the nomination as demanded by Civil-rights leaders and labor unions who don't like some of Judge Haynsworth's rulings.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

There is an inborn suspicion of the playboy who, in his age, preaches prayer. Where, once upon a time, he was first in the tavern and last to leave, he now transfers his habits to church. The only man I have known who did this — not out of fear, but out of strong character — is Walter O'Keefe.

Those of you under forty will not remember him. He was a big star in the days of radio and ran a show called the "64 Question." Mr. O'Keefe was bright and funny and handsome. Millions of fans literally adored him. Today I cannot find ten people who remember him.

Twelve years ago, when I lived in Sea Bright, N.J., O'Keefe dropped in and we talked of better days. He was aging and he had a young and attractive wife named Terry. I spotted her for what she was at once: a kindly warden who loved her prisoner.

Mr. O'Keefe, in the ups and downs of fame, had hit the bottle pretty hard. She got him off it, not by preaching, not by denouncing him, but by showing him that her devotion would give more of a lift than any other tranquility.

My friend Max Lewis, who can drink Lake Erie into a dusty valley, played the piano and Walter O'Keefe sang. I looked around the room and had the feeling that we were all has-beens. O'Keefe began to talk about God, in a whispering tone, as though he belonged to all religions, rather than vice versa.

Twelve years went by and I did not hear from Mr. O'Keefe. Now I have a letter. He lives at 912 Via Mirada, Palos Verdes Estates, California. Early in the year, he was tucked in bed in room 356 of Good Samaritan Hospital in Los Angeles. He was about to undergo a simple male operation.

He was prepared to go home when Terry and a doctor gave him the red light: he had cancer. "In this same hospital," he writes, "Senator Bobby Kennedy had died and now I was having an eyeball-to-eyeball confrontation with death. In time, Death looked the other way. I was fascinated to see it defeated by people, love and prayers. Jim, courage is feat with a prayer behind it."

"Ironically, I never learned how to handle success, but Terry and the doctors taught me how to meet failure and survive. The best of all — believe me — are the people in Show Biz. Their calling is to make something unreal look and sound real. Forty-six days after the bad news, I was home with Terry and our dog, Negagh."

"I had had nine operations for kidney stone attacks, and these things will make you write on the floor, but they are nothing compared to the sneaky silent cancer. In Dublin, in 1965, I had a heart attack. Frankly, I phoned a doctor. Gently, he said: 'I'm only five minutes away so I'll be there in a half hour.'"

A man seldom realizes how big he was until he is small. O'Keefe was the wisecracking flamboyant playboy until someone yanked the rug from under his feet. His sense of values changed, not because of illness, but rather at the time of his wedding to "Terry, the incredible one." She did a lot more than stay at this side; she made Walter O'Keefe feel important when no one shared her opinion.

Years ago, sobbing saccharine columnists used to write items asking readers to drop a sweet note to someone who was ill. The thought nauseated me. And yet I pen this little love-letter to Walter O'Keefe because I truly believe he has grown bigger and bigger with age and hardship. The best I can say of any conferee is that he is all man.

He is home now. O'Keefe has fought his kidney stones to a standstill; his heart attacks remind him of a Dublin doctor and he breaks into laughter; his cancer isn't worth a serious discussion. He is a product of the age of Jack Benny and Ben Bernie and Joe Penner and Wallace Beery and Dan Healy. Each of these had a natural talent difficult to describe, simple to imitate.

Mr. O'Keefe may be offended because I tell you this story. And yet, I doubt it because he is intensely interested in guiding young talents away from his mistakes. He closed his letter with a line guaranteed to close the throat tight: "Live in my heart and pay no rent..."

Jack Anderson Says Showdown With Sweig Brings Tears to McCormack's Eyes

WASHINGTON — For heartstricken Speaker John McCormack, suspending Martin Sweig was perhaps the most painful experience of his life. This column can now report the highlights of their two-and-a-half hour confrontation.

Despite 52 years in the public spotlight, the old man leads a solitary existence. He zealously guards his privacy and shuns all social activity except for backroom poker. Few people have ever seen the interior of the modest, three-room apartment in the Hotel Washington where he and his wife have lived since 1928.

A man with few close friends, he trusted Martin Sweig above all others. Over their 25 years together, Sweig became like a son to the childless McCormack. There was a gruff but deep affection between the two.

Last Thursday, the Speaker's nephew, Eddie McCormack, alerted his uncle that this column would publish information implicating Sweig in a series of shady dealings.

This column had quietly investigated Sweig's operations for several weeks. On Oct. 14, direct inquiries were made at the Securities and Exchange Commission and the U.S. Attorney's Office in New York City about Sweig's relationship with Parvin Dohrmann, suddenly looking all of his 77 years, blew his nose.

Sweig's Defense

These developments shook the venerable Speaker to his very soul. I called in Sweig for questioning. But as fast as the Speaker and his nephew could fire the questions, Sweig denied any wrongdoing. He denied that he had phoned New York Parole Chairman Russell Oswald to seek a prison transfer for a notorious Mafia figure, denied that he had intervened with the Capitol architect to get more money for a Baltimore contractor for work on congressional garages, denied that he even knew convicted labor racketeer Jack McCarthy.

All these individuals allegedly paid Voloshen for federal favor that Sweig was supposed to have arranged. Sweig suggested to the two McCormacks that his name must have been misused by Voloshen.

Sweig acknowledged, however, that he had set up an appointment for Parvin Dohrmann officials with SEC Chairman Hamer Budge while the company was under SEC investigation.

The Speaker showed no visible emotion. "Now look," he said, "I want a truthful answer. Did you ever get money for helping Voloshen?"

"Never," Sweig replied. "I never got a penny from Nat."

I never got a penny from anyone."

Emotional Showdown

The Speaker asked whether Voloshen had offered money in the form of campaign contributions. Even this would have been a breach of ethics to McCormack, who seldom has opposition and never accepts contributions. Sweig said that Voloshen has occasionally bought tickets to Democratic fund-raising events. That was all.

The Speaker demanded fiercely: "Didn't I tell you never to make any calls to the Justice Department, Internal Revenue, or any agency involved in contracts without checking with me?"

"Yes," said Sweig. "I made a mistake in judgement." "You made a mistake in judgement," rasped McCormack with cold fury. "You are no longer on the payroll."

No one spoke for several moments. Then the Speaker mumbled that Sweig would be suspended without pay until the investigation was completed.

Suddenly emotion welled up in the old man. "I'm going to miss you, he said, biting his lip. "I'm going to miss you, too," Sweig said, choking back tears.

Eddie McCormack shifted in his chair. "Now let's not get maudlin," he said.

John McCormack, suddenly looking all of his 77 years, blew his nose.

Nixon's Fresca

Inside the White House — Health, Education, and Welfare Secretary Robert Finch gave President Nixon advance warning that the artificial sweetener cyclamate had caused cancer in rats and that diet drinks and foods containing cyclamate would have to be barred from the market. "Gee," said the President, an edge of concern in his voice. "We've got a couple of cases of Fresca around here. Had we better get rid of them?"

The President, who watches his calories, is the Fresca drinker. His wife, Pat, is trying to fatten up. The fattening foods, however, add nothing to her weight.

White House aides have been trying to figure out what happened to the historic furniture in the Vice President's Senate office after January, 1965. It was cleaned out before former Vice President Hubert Humphrey moved into the office. One report had it that Lyndon Johnson had carted all the furniture to Texas to build a replica of his vice presidential office. This column has learned, however, that the Senate elders merely removed it to a Senate hideaway. When Humphrey called upon President Nixon the other day, they discussed what to do about public frustration over the Vietnam war. The President described the depth of feeling as "a kind of sickness." Humphrey urged him not only to speed up the troops withdrawals but to declare a standstill cease fire.

Humphrey kidded Nixon about refurbishing the presidential office, assured him that the Democrats appreciated the way the Republicans always fixed up the place for them. Retorted the President: "I hope you don't like it too much."

Mine Safety Crackdown

The coal mine safety bill will be brought up on the House floor this week for a series of crucial votes. The coal and oil industry, mustering its political strength for the occasion, is using all its power to weaken certain sections in that bill.

The United Mine Workers Union, headed by Tony Boyle, is a flabby lobbyist by comparison. Boyle is spending his time running for reelection while the safety and health of his rank and file workers are being determined by coal barons working on the Congress.

The major weaknesses of the House bill, as it now stands, were fostered by Richard Burruss, an aide to Dr. Arthur Burns and a big business partisan. Burruss keeps in close contact with coal industry magnates, including those at the National Coal Association and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association.

He has succeeded, so far, in keeping the Health, Education, and Welfare Department from testifying that the coal dust standard of 3.0 milligrams (the present level in the bill) will still subject a coal miner to over 15 times the general dust level recommended for city dwellers as minimally acceptable air pollution. Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W. Va., the first chief backer of coal safety legislation in the House, wants a specific dust standard of 0.2 milligrams as soon as possible after the bill is enacted.

Big fight on the House floor will be over eliminating from the bill the proposed industry-dominated board of review, which could veto rulings and enforcement decisions by the Secretary of the Interior. This is an unprecedented control over a Secretary's safety power.

The coal barons also are objecting to a time limit when unsafe electric equipment has to be eliminated from the mines. They also are lobbying to block the right of coal miners to sue their employers for negligence.

A chief spokesman for the coal lobby is Rep. John Erlenborn, R-Ill., who comes from a wealthy Chicago suburb with no coal mines. He is now driving to weaken further a bill he weakened in the Education and Labor Committee. Within the committee, he succeeded in weakening the dust and electrical safety standards. He also increased the burden on the government to prove negligence before imposing a civil penalty. This makes enforcement difficult.

The vote on these issues will be close.

U.S. Eyes More 'Realistic' Bonn-Russian Relationship

By LEON DENNEN

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA) — The prospect of a moderate leftist coalition ruling West Germany revives old fears of another "Rapallo Treaty" and introduces a new element of uncertainty in NATO.

It was in 1922, in the Italian town of Rapallo, that so-called realistic German politicians signed a secret military and economic treaty with Lenin's Bolsheviks under the very noses of the victorious allies of World War I.

Rapallo prepared the ground for World War II, unleashed by the Nazis in 1939 after the Stalin-Hitler Pact.

Is history likely to repeat itself in Germany? It is against this background that the outcome of the recent West German elections is now being studied by the Nixon administration.

It is easy to exaggerate the Drang nach Osten (drive to the East) of a leftist coalition government at this early stage. For one thing, the Christian Democrats are still the strongest party in Bonn's parliament. A coalition of Willy Brandt's Social Democrats and the tiny Free Democratic Party (FDP) will always be handicapped by a majority of only 12 votes.

Nor is Brandt, leader of the coalition, uncritical of the Russians, although he favors closer relations with Moscow.

He has never wavered in his allegiance to NATO. He supports Russia's proposal for a European security conference, provided the United States would be invited to attend.

But Walter Scheel, leader of the Free Democratic Party in the coalition, who is to serve as Bonn's foreign minister, is a politician of a different breed.

He recently returned to Germany from Washington with the assertion that the U. S. was reverting to isolationism. He then made a pilgrimage to Moscow where he "discovered" the possibility of doing business with the Russians even after their brutal invasion of Czechoslovakia that upset the European balance of power.

Not that Scheel's Free Democratic Party is soft on communism. But some of Bonn's leading industrialists who finance the FDP are soft on trade and profits. Ever in search of new markets, they believe that Germany's problems can be solved through closer ties to the Russian bloc.

"Give the capitalists enough rope disguised as profits and they will eventually hang themselves," Lenin once said.

Some of Bonn's industrialists told this writer that because Moscow has trouble with Red China the Germans have today a better opportunity than in 1922 and 1939 to deal with the Russians.

Whether the Kremlin leaders are prepared to downgrade their East German puppet, Walter Ulbricht by coming to terms with his West German enemies is another matter.

But the Russians have made it clear that they regard Willy Brandt and Walter Scheel more favorably than their "reactionary" Christian Democratic opponents. Even before the elections, Moscow's Izvestia praised them as being more "realistic."

This was, in effect, a return to the German policy of former Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, who predicted shortly before he fell from power that sooner or later there will be another Rapallo Treaty.

This might even be a blessing in disguise. Why not give the prosperous Europeans, especially the West Germans, a greater role in their own defense and an opportunity to come to terms with Moscow?

With the Russians preoccupied on the Chinese border and facing a host of critical problems in the Communist bloc, they are hardly in a position to engage in military adventures in West Europe.

Perhaps, as Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield suggested, there is no longer an urgent reason to keep some 300,000 American troops in Europe. The vast sums spent on maintaining the troops could be used to meet some of the pressing social needs in the United States.

Tribute to Joe Resnick

Editor, The Freeman:

It is with deep sorrow that I learned of the untimely death of former Congressman Joe Resnick. Joe, as he was known to his friends and constituents alike, was a man who first put the 28th district on the map. His courage, his energy, and his decisive leadership set the standard by which all future Congressmen will be judged at least in the 28th district.

I knew Joe first as a campaign worker, then as a staff member and then as a supporter in my own race. I also knew him as a friend. A man whose real concern was the plight of the poor and forgotten in American society led him to seek office in the first place. What he did was often controversial, but it was always the expression of what he thought had to be done. He always had the courage and the dedication to speak out on the issues of the day. We never knew Joe to dodge an issue, fudge on his positions, or keep quiet on the great issues of his time. It may well be a long time before we have a man like him with us again. For it is colorful and dynamic men like Joe who make our system work. The quiet and timid cannot focus and articulate the problems of our age. We will all miss him. To his wife, Ruth, his children and his family, our deep sympathy in this time of sorrow.

Sincerely,

Woodstock Zoning

Editor, The Freeman:

Following is a copy of a letter sent to the Woodstock Town Board.

I would like to remind the Town Board that last spring between 500 and 600 residents of Woodstock petitioned the Board that the Zoning Ordinance be left unchanged.

The immediate reason for the concern of these citizens was to revise that part of the ordinance dealing with signs. It was felt that capitulation to one self interest group — such as the store owners — would weaken the whole idea of zoning, and would inevitably lead to further capitulation when other groups — such as the land developers — brought pressure.

There are now two proposals before the Town Board which deal with zoning. One is a proposal to vastly change the sign ordinance, and the other is a request to change the law to permit a developer to erect more than twice as many housing units on a tract of land than is now permitted. Many people feel that the whole idea of zoning — Woodstock lies in the decisions on these issues which will soon be made by the Town Board.

If we are to preserve Woodstock as the kind of attractive community zoning has so far enabled it to remain, then we cannot succumb to pressure groups. First came pleas for larger, brighter signs, and now for a larger and fancy development. What next?

If zoning does need changing then let it be done free from the influence of lobbyists, and only when such changes will benefit the whole community by preserving the character of Woodstock.

Yours very truly,
MRS. KEVIN SWEENEY.

Points to Omission

Editor, The Freeman:

In her recent history lesson to the V.F.W., Sylvia Day left out a pertinent fact. According to Article 14d of the Geneva accords, civilians were granted 300 days to choose a place of residence. In that period, coupled with a small extension, nearly 1,000,000 civilians fled from North to South Vietnam, as against 5,000 choosing the North. Perhaps Sylvia is enamored of Ho Chi Minh, but apparently the Viet Namese people don't share her enthusiasm.

Democrats Seek Top Virginia Post Not in Image of Byrd

By BRUCE BROSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

RICHMOND, Va. (NEA)

William C. Battle, Democratic nominee for governor of Virginia, is clearly a breakaway from the once all-powerful machine of the late Sen. Harry Byrd.

Yet the Republicans are trying to whip up a battle as both a kind of sanitized rear-guard Byrd man and a too-modern Democrat who has friendly ties with "the Kennedys"—an association which stirs quick anger in many southern conservatives.

Battle, at 48 a veteran of more than two years as U.S. ambassador to Australia but a man with no experience in public office, helped to knock out Fred Pollard, full-fledged Byrd candidate, in Virginia's first 1969 primary.

Later on, however, Battle won a hotly fought runoff from fiery liberal Henry Howell with the necessary support of the Byrd forces, led by Gov. Mills Godwin and the younger Sen. Harry Byrd himself.

Even as some of this backing comes to him in the present race against Republican Linwood Holton, Battle tries to lure much of the rival Howell support and manfully asserts his basic independence.

There can be no doubt that he is a different cut of Democrat from the standard Byrd image. He is a symbol, indeed, of how far Virginia has moved from the days when it stood in the forefront of "massive resistance" and other stubbornly ingenious challenges to racial segregation.

Those legal fights were all lost. Virginians wearied of the turmoil. Richmond business leaders told Byrd-sponsored governors to cease disruptive combat. This year huge school desegregation advances took place with hardly a public murmur.

Battle, like Holton, offers strong voluntarily given assurances of a better break for blacks in the future. Despite anticipated defections in Richmond, the Democratic nominee might get 75 to 80 per cent of the 1969 black vote overall.

Battle openly and proudly acknowledges long friendship with the late President John F. Kennedy and others in the family.

"If being the Kennedy's friend is bad, then, by George, it's bad," says Battle. "But I don't think it is."

Unlike many a leading Democrat in the Deep South and even some parts of the Outer South, Battle does not shrink, either from identity with the national Democratic party. Nevertheless, no prominent Democrats like Hubert Humphrey or Sens. Edmund Muskie and George McGovern are scheduled to come to Virginia to speak for him.

"What I say about it," Battle tells visitors, "is that Virginia has to get back into the mainstream if we are to make our influence felt in the Democratic party."

In truth, both nominees, responsive to the swift urbanizing of a once heavily rural state, sound very much alike as they talk of jobs, economic growth, pollution, traffic congestion, etc.

If anything, Battle sounds more conservative on money matters as he chides Holton for "overpromising" on new highways, underwater tunnels, and a plan for a tax refund to aid the poor on food and drug costs.

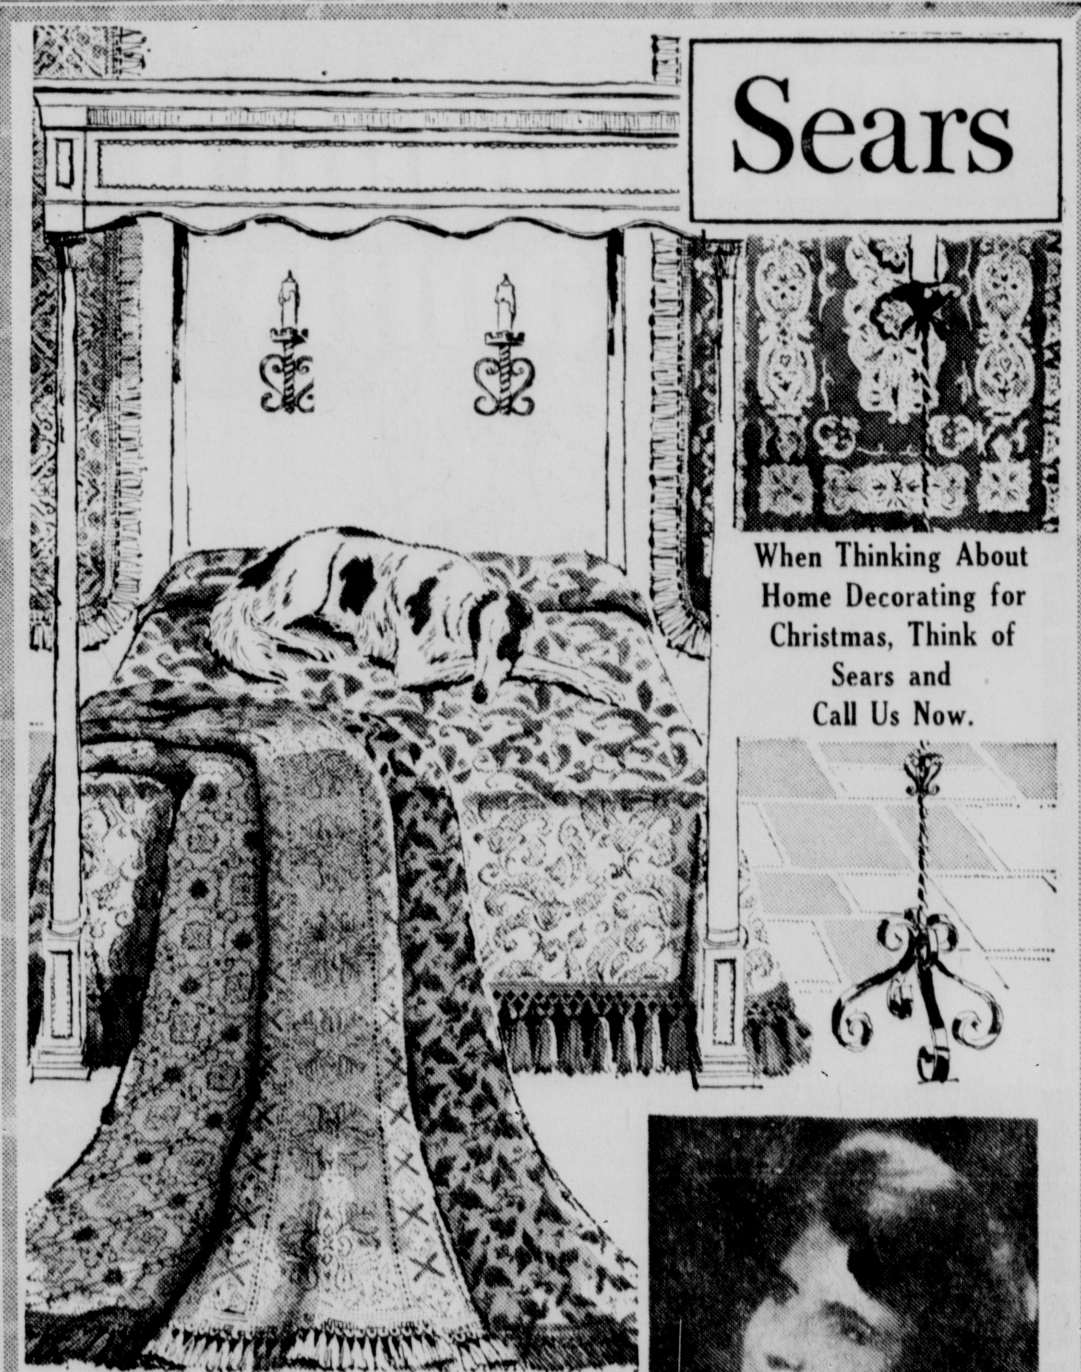

Since Holton's "money pitch" inevitably stresses getting big funds from a friendly Nixon administration, Battle tries to turn that one around to stir deepest southern resentments against "outside" control or influence.

The visit of Vice President Agnew (a bumbled affair), the engagement at Norfolk of California Gov. Ronald Reagan Oct. 23, and a possible Nixon foray are all used to press the point.

But if Holton is at all vulnerable because, in Battle's words, the GOP nominee is "making this into a national election," then Battle must be said to find his problems within his own state party.

The Godwin-Byrd aid he got in the Howell runoff left its "Byrd taint." The labor and black endorsers of Holton say Battle must lose so the Byrd machine can be crushed totally. Battle seems wary about using again a ready Godwin though his muscle might be vital.

Judge Haynsworth Dispute---
The Charges and the Defense

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the most serious charges that can be leveled against a public official is conflict of interest. The collision of what is good for himself and what is best for the society he serves.

For a judge, deliberately isolated from the pressures of competitive society to help safeguard his freedom to act without fear or favor, even the whiff of conflict of interest can leave a damaging stain.

And that is what the Haynsworth controversy now dividing Washington is mostly about.

Clement Furman Haynsworth Jr., 56, presiding judge of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, is President Nixon's choice to fill the Supreme Court seat vacated by Abe Fortas. Strong Senate opposition has developed against the Haynsworth nomination on grounds of alleged conflicts of interest.

Haynsworth's opponents also charge that his record shows him to be hostile to the civil rights and labor movements. But the nomination seems likely to stand or fall on the specific allegations of conflict of interest and the more general charge that Haynsworth lacks the sensitivity to questions of judicial ethics needed to sit on the nation's highest court.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., a member of the Senate Judiciary Committee, is the principal accuser of Haynsworth. Sens. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., and Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., also members of the Judiciary Committee, are the principal defenders of the judge.

Here is a resume of some of Bayh's accusations of conflict of interest, and Hruska's and Cook's defense:

In 1950, while practicing private law in Greenville, S.C., Haynsworth and a group of business associates organized a company to sell food and other products through coin machines. They called it Carolina Vend-A-Matic Co.

Haynsworth invested $3,000 in the company and got a one-seventh interest. He was elected to the board of directors and was named a vice president. The company prospered, doing business with a large number of textile companies, including the Deering Milliken Co.

Haynsworth testified he resigned as vice president when he went on the federal bench in 1957. He said company records showing he held the office through 1963 were in error. He retained his seat on the board of directors until the Judicial Conference of the United States required federal judges to resign directorships in private companies in 1963.

Haynsworth testified he offered to sell his stock to fellow stockholders. Instead, the company was sold to Automatic Retailers of America. Haynsworth realized a net profit of $437,000 on his original investment.

Bayh charged that between 1958 and 1963 Haynsworth took part in seven cases involving customers of Carolina Vend-A-Matic.

The most publicized case was Darlington Manufacturing Co. versus the National Labor Relations Board. Darlington was a subsidiary of Deering Milliken. The issue was whether Deering Milliken had a right to shut down the Darlington plant because of union activity.

Haynsworth held that it did, in a 3-2 decision.

The decision was later reversed in the Supreme Court, which ruled Deering Milliken could go out of business completely if it wished, but it could not selectively close down one plant to "chill unionism."

During the course of the case, the Textile Workers Union of America said it received an anonymous tip that Haynsworth had ruled as he did because of a promise from Deering Milliken to "throw business" to Carolina Vend-A-Matic.

The union forwarded the charge to Judge Simon Sobeloff, then presiding judge of the appeals circuit. Sobeloff, in turn, forwarded it to the Justice Department. After an investigation, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sobeloff cleared Haynsworth of any criminal acceptance of a bribe (the offer of business for Carolina Vend-A-Matic).

Both the union and Bayh contend Haynsworth should have disqualified himself from the Darlington case, or at least disclosed that he had a financial interest in a company which was doing business with the textile firm.

Cook and Hruska argue that this was at all improper, the Haynsworth's ownership in the vending firm was a "third disqualification of a federal party" relationship to the judge says that a judge shall disqualify himself in any case in which he has a substantial interest. In each of the three cases, his interest was not substantial. It was insignificant.

"At no time was Carolina Vend-A-Matic a litigant in the federal courts," they said. On the contrary, they contend, Haynsworth had a "duty" to sit since his third-party relationship did not disqualify him.

Bayh cited three other cases which involved Haynsworth stock ownership: Farrow vs. Grace Lines, Inc.; Donohue vs. Maryland Casualty Co. and Baldwin vs. Maryland Casualty Co.

In each case, Haynsworth owned stock in the parent company of one of the parties—300 shares of W. R. Grace Co. and 200 preferred shares and 67 common shares in American General Insurance Co., Maryland Casualty's parent.

Hruska and Cook again concede Haynsworth sat on the cases, but say: "There has been no interpretation from the ABA which would indicate that

Roy Wilkins, director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) said: "The nomination of Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., is a deadly blow to the image of the United States Supreme Court."

Hruska and Cook, taking note of Wilkins' criticism of Haynsworth, said "the most vicious attacks" on the judge came from those who contended his opinions "form a pro-segregationist pattern."

"We think the record shows quite the contrary. There is absolutely no pattern of bias. Some decisions were in favor of the party claiming infringement of civil rights and some decisions were not," the senators said.

Samuels, O'Dwyer to Speak

Reservations Brisk for Woodstock Dem Dinner

WOODSTOCK
Reservations for Saturday's Woodstock Democratic Committee annual dinner at Oehler's Mountain Lodge are reportedly brisk.

Interest in the event has been enhanced by the fact that two prominent speakers are scheduled to appear — Howard

J. Samuels and Paul O'Dwyer. The dinner received wide attention earlier when the announcement of Samuels' appearance was made and a number of county Democratic officials raised objections to his appearance. Samuels, an up-state industrialist and former candidate for lieutenant governor, recently endorsed Liberal Mayoral candidate for New York City mayor, John Lindsay. The affair is scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. at the lodge located on Rt. 28-A in Woodstock. According to John Bonilla, chairman of the Woodstock Democratic Committee and a candidate for county legislator,

"Samuels is one of several bright 'New Frontier' potential candidates that has appeared on the political horizon in the past few years. A self-made man, Samuels amassed his fortune as founder of the Kordite Corporation, a $100 million a year producer of plastic packaging.

"From Canandaigua, Samuels, father of eight children, served as Under Secretary of Commerce and as Administrator of the Federal Small Business Administration. "Paul O'Dwyer, long a controversial figure in State Democratic circles, rounds out the guest list. O'Dwyer was the Democratic nominee for U.S. Senator in 1968. He defeated the party convention choice, Eugene Nickerson, and Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick, in a rousing non-professional campaign. O'Dwyer, because of his support of Sen. Eugene McCarthy, attracted thousands of young people to work tirelessly in his campaign. "A life-long Democrat, O'Dwyer had a close association with Eleanor Roosevelt, former Governor Herbert Lehman and other reform Democrats. "Tickets for the affair are available from ticket chairman Lucille Kalish, or from Bonilla.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (UPI)—Stocks opened mixed today in moderately active trading.

Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's opposition to a unilateral cease-fire in Vietnam may dampen enthusiasm on Wall Street, especially since much of the market's recent gain stemmed from speculation that President Nixon might announce such a move in his Nov. 3 address to the nation.

Shortly after the opening, the UPI marketwide indicator showed a gain of 0.11 per cent on 397 issues crossing the tape. There were 160 advances, and 131 declines.

Electronics and oils were mixed, but steel advanced. In the oil group, Gulf picked up  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 33 $\frac{1}{2}$  on a block of 16,600 shares. Standard of Ohio edged up  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 95 $\frac{1}{2}$ , but Occidental eased  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 24 on a block of 12,000 shares. Pennzoil lost  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 37, and Natomas  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 79 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

Quotations by First Albany Corporation, members of New York Stock Exchange and American Stock Exchange, 52 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y. Sheldon Levy, resident manager.

Woman Injured, Man Is Cited

RHINEBECK

A Woodstock woman was injured and a Dutchess county man was cited for driving while intoxicated, following a two-car collision at 11:15 p.m. Wednesday on Route 9 in this village.

State Police arrested Robert Oines, 31, of this community, on the drunken driving charge. He is being held in $100 bail pending a hearing before Village Police Justice William Pollard.

Troopers said Oines was driving north on the highway when his car crossed into the southbound lane and collided with a vehicle driven by Jean Myers, 30, of Woodstock. She was taken to Northern Dutchess Hospital and treated for lacerations of the face.

Heller, Commissioner of the New York City Department of Air Resources.

Their attendance is being sponsored by the Catskill Region TB and RD Association, as a part of the observance of Cleaner Air Week in the Greene, Ulster and Sullivan County areas.

Post Card Warning

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The post card industry has warned Congress it could cause the death of the post card if it raises postage rates for the cards to six cents. "Wouldn't it be a shame," said industry spokesman Elmer H. Grogan, "to keep increasing the post card rate and suddenly discover that the rate has risen too high. The lowering the number of post cards used and actually choking an industry out of existence?"

Police said the Rev. Frank Woyke Sr., secretary of the North American Baptist Organization, was asleep in another hotel room at the time his wife and mother-in-law were beaten to death. The Woykes and Mrs. Jacopian had come to Oak Park to take young Woyke east for medical treatment. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Richter to face charges of driving a car with switched plates, unlicensed operation, having no inspection sticker, driving an unregistered motor vehicle, having no insurance for the car and unsafe tires.

In other traffic cases, police said several motorists were charged with speeding on Wednesday, bringing the total of accused speeders to 36 since Sunday.

Blue Cross Seeks Increase In Northeastern New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI)—Blue Cross asked Wednesday for an average 35 per cent rate hike in individual subscriber and community rated contracts in a 13 county area of northeastern New York.

The increase would affect more than 100,000 subscribers. It would not apply to group employee contracts.

Under law, the proposed increase must first be considered by the State Insurance Department, which is expected to hold public hearings. The last time Blue Cross won a rate increase in the region was in 1964, when rates went up 15 per cent.

New fees proposed include a $9.70 per quarter hike in the present $48.20 to $57.90. Family contracts, from the present $77.64 to $87.60.

Man Sought For Assault On Girl, 14

HOPEWELL JUNCTION

A general alarm was sent out Wednesday night by Fishkill state police for a young man wanted in connection with an assault upon a 14-year-old girl in a parking lot at St. Columba's School Hall on Route 82 at Route 376 in this Dutchess County hamlet.

Troopers called upon all police agencies in the area to assist in a search for the man, who authorities were told someone splashed eggs on the girl, forced her to the front and rear of her home the ground and committed the crime of sexual abuse. The girl was not injured.

Uniformed troopers and BCI officers combed the entire community for hours last night but found no trace of the man described by the girl as about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, white, medium build and wearing dark overalls, trousers and a white jacket.

Egg Tossing

A pre-Halloween complaint involving throwing of eggs at a residence was under investigation today by Kingston Police.

Mrs. I. E. Bohnke of 30 Reynolds Street, told authorities she and her husband were told someone splashed eggs on the girl, forced her to the front and rear of her home the ground and committed the crime of sexual abuse. The girl was not injured.

Recently, Blue Cross won rate hikes in the Southern New York area, which were seen as an indication that rates would rise throughout the rest of the state. That hike was approved by the insurance department, but did not go into effect until after it was appealed through the courts by the city of New York and Blue Cross blames rising hospital costs and wages for the need for new rates. The northeastern Blue Cross ant. is asked to immediately region includes the counties of Albany, Schenectady, Rensselaer, Saratoga, Essex, Clinton, Schoharie and Warren, parts of Greene and Columbia.

Koenig Reviews His Qualifications

KINGSTON — Francis R. Koenig, the Democrat-Liberal candidate for mayor, today reviewed what he termed are his qualifications for the office he seeks.

Koenig said, "I have been a lifelong resident of this city but there are those who say that just because a person has lived in a community all his life doesn't necessarily qualify him for the office of mayor. I am the first to concede that life-long residency in the city of Kingston may not be everything, but I sincerely believe that it is worth something."

Koenig continued: "In similar vein, among my qualifications for the high office of mayor I have stated my experience in governmental affairs. These include, in the order in which they occurred, two years in the mayor's office, being closely apprised of, and familiar with, the innumerable problems of the chief executive of the city; four years in the legislative body, the Common Council, as the alderman of the former 9th Ward, in which I had actual, practical, almost daily experience with the legislative affairs of the city with the sponsoring of resolutions, ordinances and local laws, and pursuing them to their final adoption by the Common Council, as well as membership upon many of the committees of that body which, similar to committees of the Congress, does so much of the fundamental and basic work of the Council, and with the myriad problems presented by the citizens to every alderman.

"Thereafter, I served as the presiding officer of the Common Council, namely as the alderman-at-large. In addition to presiding over the regular, recessed and special meetings of that legislative body I had the responsibility of appointing the chairman and all of the members of every committee of the Common Council. I also served ex officio on all committees," Koenig said.

"Now there are those who have said during this campaign that experience in these various phases of the operation of our city government isn't everything, still I believe that these experiences for eight years, in important positions of our municipal government, surely are worth something," Koenig said.

"During my term of office as alderman-at-large, I was called upon to serve as acting mayor and I did so serve. Now, again, it may be that the experience gained while discharging the duties of the mayor, may not mean everything, still I respectfully submit that it does mean something."

"Again, listed among my qualifications was the fact that I had graduated from Kingston High School and attended Siena College where I received a degree of Bachelor of Science in Economics. True, that fact that one is a college graduate, claimed by many today to be almost essential for success in the business world, may not mean everything, but surely it was worth something.

"Again, the fact that a person has conducted, for some time, his own successful business may not, of course, be the answer to everything. But generally, and especially where the chief executive of the City of Kingston is the equivalent of the president of a five million dollar corporation, I sincerely believe that a successful business surely is worth something," Koenig said.

"It may not be necessary that a candidate for mayor of the City of Kingston be a homeowner and taxpayer, and yet I think that only a homeowner and taxpayer can fully understand and appreciate the problems of home ownership, and the burden of paying real property taxes. And so, while the ownership of a home and the payment of real property taxes may not be everything, I feel it is fair to say that it should count for something."

"Finally, the fact that I intend to remain in the City of Kingston for the rest of my life and to bring up my family here and to keep my business within the City of Kingston may not be the most important consideration for a candidate for mayor, but like the other things I have mentioned while it may not be all important, I feel it surely is worth something, Koenig concluded.

Area Political Page Singer Questions Opponent's 'Shock'

KINGSTON — Bernard Singer, the Conservative candidate for mayor, today questioned his Democratic opponent's "shock" over Singer's statements that Kingston is in decline and needs to have that trend reversed.

Referring to Francis R. Koenig, Singer asked, "Could it be that Mr. Koenig is either naive, asleep or just uninformed?"

"It is a well-known fact that Kingston has lost several thousand residents over the past few years, that business and industry have moved out of the city, and that no one person, committee, or agency has tried to keep what we have had — much less bring in new or add to the old," Singer said.

Singer promised to establish an active industrial committee that will not only try to stem the exodus from Kingston, but will actively work to bring new people, new business, and new industry into the city. "The brochures from the New York State Chamber of Commerce leave Kingston conspicuous by its absence in the report of progress in communities throughout the state. It's about the time that something was done to stop this deterioration and build back to a city that would be bigger and better than ever before."

"With our advantageous location on the Hudson River, our proximity to the Thruway, our pure water supply, plus many other desirable assets—we offer a great deal to potential developers. We can sell Kingston to those looking for suitable sites if we only make the effort," Singer concluded.

Advocates Community Meetings

TOWN OF ESOPUS — Louis M. Klein, Democratic and Conservative Party candidate for town justice of the Town of Esopus, today announced his desire to meet with citizens groups in each hamlet of the Town on a regular basis if successful in his bid for election.

"If elected town justice, I propose to visit each hamlet in the Town at least once every two months to report on my activities in office. Town Board proposals affecting the particular hamlet, and to learn what problems or conditions exist in the hamlet with which the Town Board should be concerned. Of course, a proposal such as this needs the cooperation of the citizens to be effective, but I believe that sufficient interest exists among the electorate to warrant its institution. In carrying out this program, I would invite and urge other town officials to join me at any and all appearances before such meetings."

New Hall Problems Listed by Tyrrell

KINGSTON — James J. Tyrrell, Republican candidate for mayor, said today that it is surprising that the Democratic administration, after so many attempts to rush the construction of a new city hall, has not purchased the property in the Urban Renewal area (Broadway and Meadow St.). The Common Council approved the purchase in January, 1969, Tyrrell noted, but here it is 10 months later and still no purchase.

Tyrrell said he is not opposed to municipal construction Downtown but, the present city hall planning leaves a lot to be desired.

First of all we must solve the problem of the battle over the possible location of the new city hall. The idea of Uptown groups against Downtown groups should be eliminated. We are all Kingstonsians and we should be concerned about the future development of our city and alleviate the controversies in order to begin this development," Tyrrell said.

Some of the problems holding up construction were cited by the GOP candidate. "The Common Council approved a study to determine what space would be needed in the new city hall and the mayor vetoed the measure. In addition the Common Council voted to borrow $900,000 for construction in June, 1969, although cost estimates on this proposed building have varied by $500,000. The residents of Kingston were told this year by the present administration that private investors will develop the Downtown section, if the city builds Downtown. However the mayor has said he has not spoken with a serious developer since January, 1966.

Tyrrell said the planning behind the present city hall will shortchange all residents of the city . . . whether they live Uptown or Downtown.

"We are entitled to answers before we invest nearly one million dollars. At any time with the proper planning, if the construction of a municipal building Downtown will bring additional development. I will be in favor of such development," Tyrrell concluded.

Sabino Speaks About Traffic; Stedge Answers Some Charges

TOWN OF ULSTER — "The Town of Ulster must have an early solution to the traffic problems which exist along Albany Avenue Extension from the Kingston city line to the Rhinecliff Bridge clover leaf," according to Carmine Sabino, Republican candidate for supervisor of the Town of Ulster.

Sabino's opponent, Robert Stedge issued a statement today in which he answers charges that he switched his allegiance from the Republican Party to the Democratic-Conservative line.

Sabino, who has already laid out a highway program and met with public officials on the local and state level, said however that the town does have an excellent system of town-owned and town-maintained highways which have been developed through the coordination of efforts on the part of the Republican Town Board and the Republican Superintendent of Highways, Edgar P. Elliott.

The resolving "of the already planned state arterial in the Albany Avenue Extension area and the improvement of Albany Avenue Extension itself are essential items which I put on my list of priorities," Sabino said. "I will be working in close contact with the Ulster Businessmen's Association and with future developers in the matter."

He said he would also press for additional state and federal funded highways in the town as the demand arises and will work with the road planning officials of the State Transportation Department and the Federal Roads Bureau in order to insure that such roads are placed in locations that are in the best interests of the development of the Town of Ulster.

"We must have major state highways in our town ship but they must be located so as to protect our present developments, promote future developments and preserve our excellent tax base, all in order that our town's taxes do not increase," Stedge, who is still an enrolled Republican has been endorsed in his candidacy by both the Democrats and the Conservatives.

He charges that it is the Republican leadership that has deserted the Republican voters in the town. "The award for such support," he said, "has been traffic congestion, crowded and unsanitary trailer parks, no recreational facilities at all in the town except an undeveloped park and a constant danger that one's property may be devalued at any time."

Stedge said that, "I had hoped that by entering the contest for supervisor all political parties would address themselves to the issues and the solutions of these problems. The Conservative and Democratic parties have presented a program but the Republican Party is avoiding the issues and has offered no solution to any of the town's real problems."

A former Republican town justice, and present Planning Board chairman, Stedge also charged that the Republican leadership has contented itself with a personal attack on his loyalty. He asks, "Loyalty to whom?—the people or the party bosses?"

CAMPAIGNING IN THE TOWN OF ULSTER

Rafalowsky's Has Fashions For the Fall

If there is any doubt that male fashion has been undergoing continual change for the better, a visit to Rafalowsky's, 71 Albany, will dispel it.

The store has officially opened the fall fashion season with a truly fine presentation of Eagle clothes, virtually every suit and sport coat showing some degree of shape, or bodyline contouring. It is considered a most masculine look, accenting shoulders and chest, minimizing the waist, and creating an over-all effect of youth and dash.

The Eagle collection, one of the most comprehensive ever shown in this area, celebrates the Golden Anniversary of Eagle Clothes, the largest producer of fashion clothing in America. Among new models offered at Rafalowsky's is the 6-button double-breasted suit and sport coat, representing one of the most popular silhouettes on the current men's fashion scene.

Topcoats, overcoats and slacks by Eagle are also included in the anniversary showing, which Rafalowsky's calls Festival Fifty.

Former C-H Official Announces Task Force

A Task Force on Environmental Matters has been established by The Northeast Power Coordinating Council, it was announced by Ernest R. Acker, NPCC chairman at the council's annual meeting held recently in New York City.

Acker is a former official of Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp.

"The need to reconcile the public need for an adequate, reliable power supply with the public need for a clean and attractive environment is one of the most pressing concerns facing the electric power industry today," Acker said.

Recognizing this concern the Council has established the task force with the objective of studying means of reconciling these important human needs and improving communications among the power industry, conservation groups, regulating agencies and all elements of the public who share the Council's concern, Acker noted.

The Task Force on Environmental Matters is the eighth Task Force established by the Council. The seven task forces previously established are, Task Force on System Studies, Task Force on System Protection, Task Force on Load and Capacity, Task Force on Load Reduction and Spinning Reserve, Task Force on On-Line Computers, Task Force on Interpool Coordination and Task Force on Coordination of Planning.

NPCC is a voluntary organization of major electric utilities in the New England, New York and Ontario, Canada areas serving 271,000 square miles, with a population of 36,200,000. NPCC membership systems serve 11,800,000 customers, and account for 98 per cent of the electric generating capacity of the Northeast—or an aggregate in stalled generating capability of 44 million kilowatts.

Women Help Migrants

The Woman's Club of Saugerties was organized in 1966 as a result of the efforts of several area women who desired to establish a club that would be large enough in its scope to appeal to all the women of the community. Since that time the Woman's Club has enjoyed a wide variety of activities and notable speakers at monthly meetings.

The Club is composed of Departments including Art, Home, Education, International Affairs, Public Affairs, Legislature, Press, Membership, Ushers, Ways and Means, Yearbook, and Hospitality. Club members join one or more of these departments, which work on related projects throughout the Club Year.

Some of the projects for the current Club year are a Membership Tea, Children's Theater, decoration of vacant Saugerties store fronts at Christmas, a "Clean-Up Week" poster contest, a bus trip to New York Art Museums, making Christmas dolls and seed plaques, meetings on landscaping and money management, a bake sale, a rummage sale, the annual Valentine Dinner-Dance, and a Spring Fashion Show and Luncheon.

Membership is open to all interested women in the area. The Club meets from September through April on the fourth Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. at the Dutch Arms Chapel in Saugerties. Guest speakers are featured at most meetings, followed by a business meeting and refreshments.

The next meeting of the Club will be held on October 23.

MRS. ROBERT RESTA (L) president of the American Association of University Women, and Mrs. Paul H. Johnson, membership chairman, announce an innovation in the annual membership tea program. This year, two membership teas will be held, the first to be given at the home of Mrs. Robert Resta, 153 Fair Street, Kingston, on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m., followed by another at the home of Mrs. Paul Johnson, 6 Oriole Drive, Woodstock, Sunday, Nov. 9 from 2 to 4 p.m. The Kingston Branch now covers such a large geographic area, with evidence of interest in its many faceted program coming from such widely separated localities, that the planning committee felt two teas would better serve the prospective and present members. The Kingston tea is being planned for the convenience of those women living in Kingston, Saugerties, High Falls, Stone Ridge or Rondout Valley communities; the Woodstock tea is intended to cover Woodstock, West Hurley, Shokan and Samsonville. AAUW membership is open to women with a baccalaureate or higher degree. All members and eligible, prospective members are invited to attend either tea. There is a place in AAUW for anyone who would like to be involved in a vital group of women concerned with today's events and problems. Reservations may be made by contacting either Mrs. Resta or Mrs. Johnson. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Hints from Heloise

By HELOISE CRUISE

Dear Heloise:

I had so many souvenirs (such as matches, pamphlets and post cards) from different places I had been, that I thought it was a shame to hide them away in a drawer. Suddenly I got a brain storm. Why not make a permanent place to put them where they could be seen?

So I went to the stationery store and bought a large piece of pressboard and cut it into four place mats.

Then I arranged my souvenirs on the pressboard and covered them with clear adhesive-backed plastic.

They just turned out darling and I've had more compliments on my novel placemats.

Patricia Harned

What a precious way to keep those cherished mementos.

And did you know, that if you didn't want to make the placemats, you could use this same idea to make a bulletin board for your den, kitchen or bedroom?

Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For a quick marshmallow roast for the little ones: Take a cookie sheet, lay crackers to cover the sheet and put a marshmallow on each cracker. Now put under broiler and toast to a golden brown.

The children love them, and no burned fingers.

Great grandmother

Dear Heloise: Did you ever find yourself in dire need of a shoehorn? Like when you have to put your tight shoes on after a gym session, at a doctor's office, or after slipping them off at the theater?

Well, if you place a folded-in-half crisp dollar bill against your heel as you slip your foot into the shoe, you will have a wonderful makeshift shoehorn.

In fact, any stiff piece of paper will act as well.

Try it and see, and be amazed how miraculously it works.

Mrs. Eugene Jacobs

Dear Heloise: When I am sewing a hem I make a knot (like you do when you are finished sewing) every three or four inches around the hem of the garment. Do not cut the thread, but continue sewing.

This way, if you catch your hem on something, it will only rip between the knots—the whole thing won't come down—and you won't have so much mending to do.

This is especially good on children's clothes.

Bud Smith Steps Down

Hawkins Named to Sawyers' Basketball Post

By MORT LAFFIN

SAUGERTIES
Fred Seither, Athletic Director of Saugerties High School announced today that John P. (Buddy) Smith, has stepped down as varsity basketball coach for the Sawyers and will be replaced by Jerry Hawkins. Smith has coached basketball for 14 years at Saugerties and has also been the varsity coach for the cross-country and track teams. He will continue to serve at the helm of those two sports.

"But, I can understand his feeling. 14 years is a long time and we will miss his services in that capacity. However, I'm sure that Jerry Hawkins will do a good job. He, too, is a fine man," concluded the AD.

Hawkins, 25, a resident of Kingston, has been in the Saugerties School System for three years as an algebra teacher. He graduated from Kingston High School in 1962, having been a standout on the varsity basketball team.

Hawkins Was Star

The new mentor then went to New Paltz State where he participated in varsity baseball, basketball and soccer. In 1966, he was voted as the Most Valuable Player on the baseball squad. He was also named to State All Conference team.

Upon graduation from New Paltz, Hawkins attended Florida Atlantic College, where he received his masters degree.

Jerry is well known in the Ulster County area, having starred for the Kingston Braves of the Mid-Hudson Rookie League. In 1968, he was named MVP for his team and the league.

Hawkins has coached the freshman basketball and baseball teams in his three years at Saugerties.

Smith started his coaching career in basketball in 1955 at Saugerties and his teams posted a record of 131-123.

Wins UCAL

When Bud, as he likes to be called, first took the reins, the Sawyers were members of the Ulster County Athletic League.

Under his direction in 1955, Saugerties tied for first place with Kerhonkson, now Rondout, and was defeated in a playoff. In 1956, the Sawyers reversed the decision.

In 1957, Saugerties entered the Dutchess County Scholastic League and had a mediocre season due to Smith's having to rebuild a squad whose ranks had been depleted by graduation. In '58-'59, the Sawyers made a comeback and finished a strong second.

Smith's '59-'60 stint saw the Sawyers defeat Arlington in the first game of the season and loose to them in the last, tying for first place in the Central Section. The Admirals, under the direction of Fritz Jordan, won a playoff game, capturing the title.

Smith's hoopsters were not to be denied in '60-'61, as they went all the way to the finals of the Sectional Tournament in White Plains after winning the DCSL. Fortune looked the other way in that final tilt, however, as the Sawyers were defeated for the crown of the Section 1 by Roosevelt, runners-up to Saugerties in the DCSL that season.

Under Bud's direction, Saugerties basketball teams played in 10 sectional tournaments, winning four and losing six.

The Saugerties mentor graduated from Kingston High School, but never played basketball until he entered the service, during World War Two.

Smith Scored 40

Upon receiving an honorable discharge, Smith entered Ithaca College, where he played varsity basketball, soccer and track. He once tallied 40 points in a hoop contest and that performance stood as a college record at Ithaca for 10 years.

"Basketball has always been my first love," said Smith. "But enough is enough. I have been coaching three sports for a long time and would now like to devote more time to my track and cross country teams. I look for the boys to come along and develop under Jerry (Hawkins). But, he's going to find that it is a tough league. We had some good and bad years. But Jerry will do well, he's a fine choice," concluded Smith.

Hawkins said: "I'm very happy to have received the appointment. I will try my best to make our basketball teams a success. Bud did a great job and I hope I can follow his example. I think Saugerties can come back. I'll know more in about two weeks, when practice starts."

Bill Rigney Set as Martin's Replacement

ST. PAUL—MINNEAPOLIS (UPI)—Bill Rigney was expected officially to become the manager of the Minnesota Twins today, provided the Angels give their blessing—the California Angels, that is.

Twins President Calvin Griffith announced Tuesday that he and Rigney had agreed on terms of a one-year contract, but Rigney was unable to sign the contract until he had come to terms with the Angels.

Rigney had one year to go on his Angel contract. He was fired last May after serving as pilot of the expansion Angels since their inception.

"I foresee no difficulties," he said at his home in Alamo, Calif., Wednesday, "but a tax matter enters into it, too, and it may take more than a day or two to resolve."

Coming to Minnesota will be like returning home for Rigney. He helped the Minneapolis Millers win the Little World Series in 1955—and was named Minor League Manager of the Year by the Sporting News.

It was suggested that Rigney's popularity in Twin Cities baseball circles might have something to do with Griffith's selection.

Griffith's firing of the Twins

1969 manager, Billy Martin, has been very unpopular here and some cars still carry stickers saying "Bring Billy Back."

But Griffith said "This didn't enter into it." "I was looking for a man with experience. I understand that Rigney is very good at handling players. That's what I wanted most."

Griffith said he saw Rigney, now 51, play with the New York Giants.

"He would be a great shortstop if he were playing today—as good as any in the American League," the Twins president said.

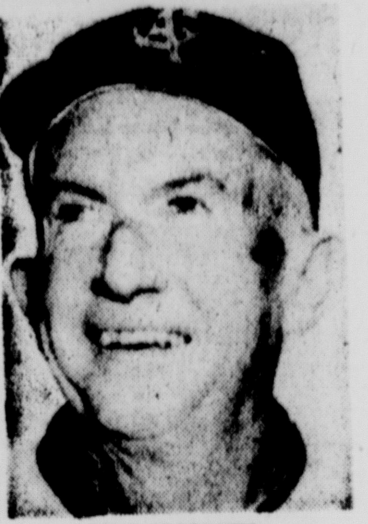

But since Rigney's playing days are over Griffith decided to hire him as the fifth manager of the Twins since they moved to Minnesota.

It is the first time that Griffith has gone outside his organization for a manager since he became president in 1956.

Cookie Lavagetto and Sam

Mele were Washington Senator and Twin coaches when they were named manager. Cal Ermer and Martin piloted the Twins' triple A farm at Denver at the time of their appointments.

"Rigney will get the highest salary I ever paid a manager," said Griffith, without disclosing the figure estimated at around $60,000. "I know what he was making with the California Angels. I matched the salary."

BILL RIGNEY

Landry Shoots for 28 In Game With Giants

DALLAS (UPI)—Dallas Cowboys coach Tom Landry declines to say what he thinks it will take point-wise to beat the New York Giants in next Monday night's nationally televised National Football League game in the Cotton Bowl.

Probably thinking about his team's defense, which is the stingiest in the league in many respects, Landry finally was drawn out to make the comment:

"Well, I'm always shooting for 28 points. That's a good round number."

Then, he started extolling the credit side of the ledger of his old Giants alma mater.

"The Giants are looking better...very aggressive," Landry said. "We know their offense is capable of scoring. (Fran) Tarkenton is always dangerous with his scrambling and throwing. You know he is one of the three NFL quarterbacks who hasn't been intercepted.

"And, the Giants defense seem to be fighting and hustling—and that's always good since it makes up sometimes for lapses elsewhere. They seem to have stabilized their defense, moving (Henry) Davis out of the middle to the outside.

"And, they have fairly good experience. I think Fred Dryer (defensive end from San Diego State) is the only rookie."

He also had a kind word for Don Herrmann, the Giants' rookie wide receiver from Waynesburg.

"I have only seen him in the films," Landry said, "but I know that for a rookie, he runs awfully fine pass routes—and that's something for a first-year man."

The Giants, he said, have "a new look, a new attitude and are hustling," under Alex Webster, who replaced Allie Sherman after a losing pre-season schedule.

Don Smith, the Giants' publicity man, concurred in Landry's summation of the club. Landry served so long as player and coach before he took the Cowboys and molded them into championship contenders.

"There has been a change," Smith said, "but no one is quite sure what it is. The change came so late that there certainly was no chance to alter the things Sherman had mapped out. It apparently is mostly emotional."

"We don't have a real strong team to begin with and against the Cowboys we are going to be without our one-two rushers, Tucker Frederickson and Bob Duhan, not to mention the fact Spider Lockhart on defense.

Bard Nips UCCC Squad

ANNADALE
Ulster County Community College soccer team dropped a 3-2 decision to Bard College in double overtime here Wednesday afternoon on a bitter, windy day.

Ulster built up an early 2-0 lead on goals by Leiv Knutsen at the 10 minute mark of the first period and Bill Zeeh rammed in the second after 12 minutes of the second period.

Bard scored its first goal with two minutes left in the second quarter when Ray Garbner sneaked one in. Al Griefen tied the score at the 14 minute mark of the third period. Both teams were unable to score in the fourth period sending the contest into overtime.

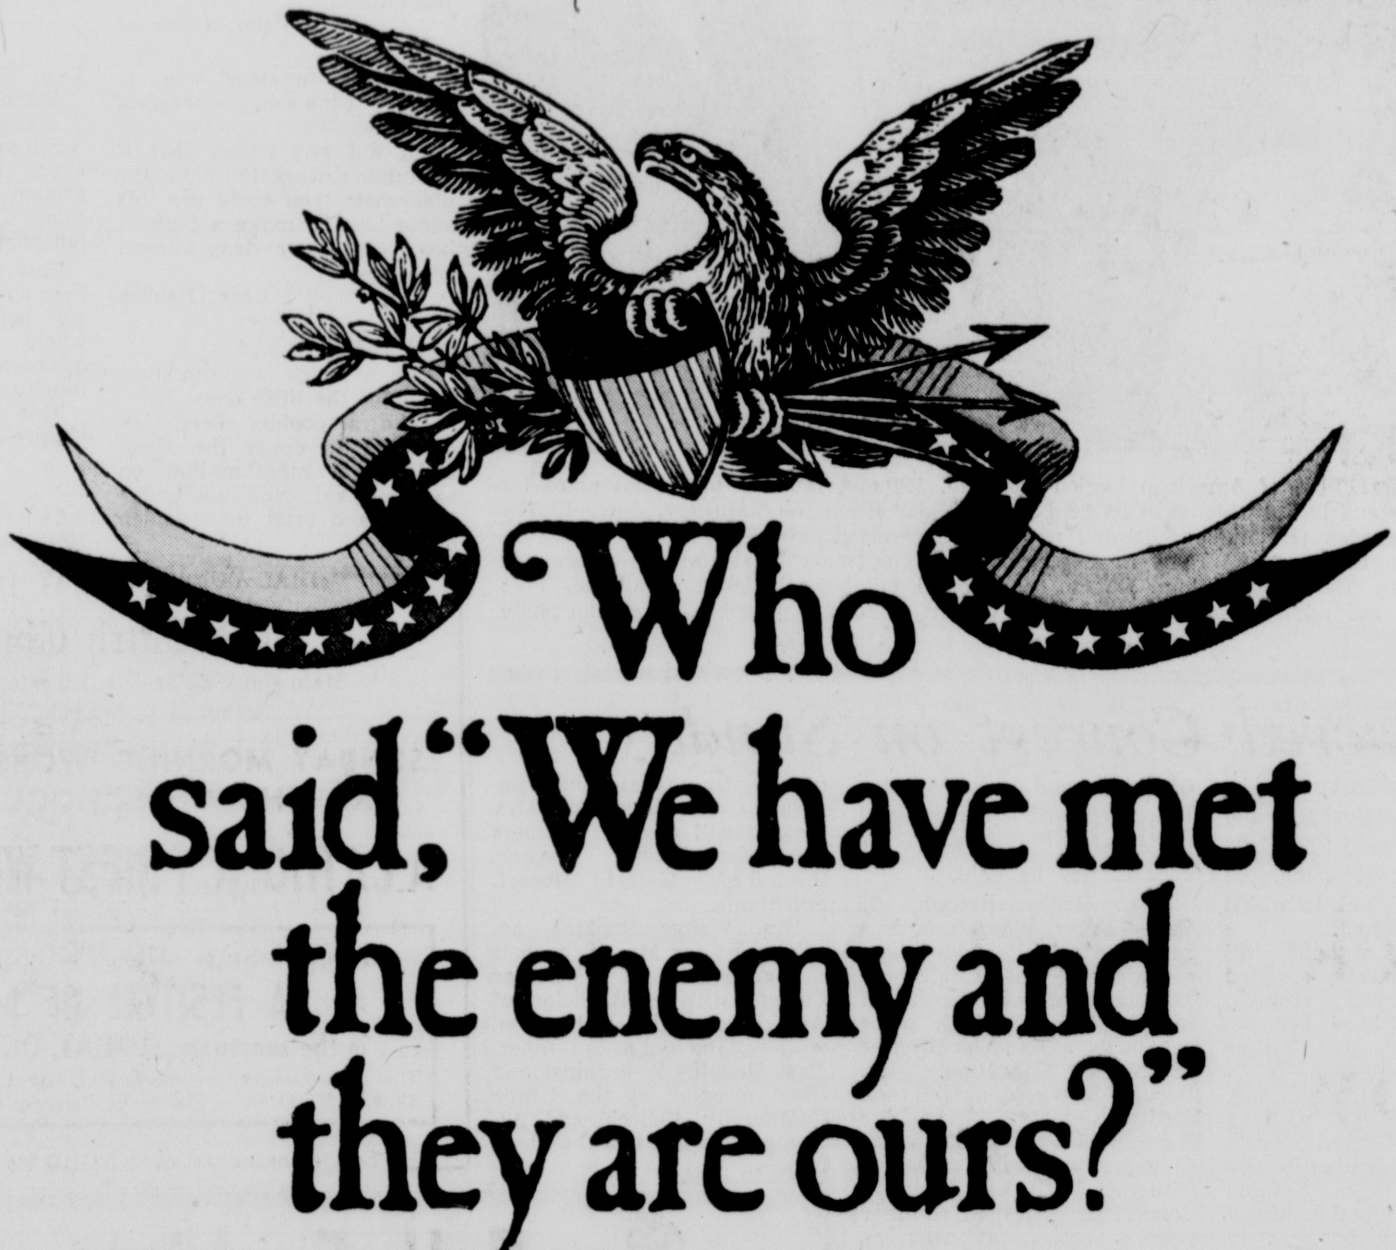

It seemed like the Senators just couldn't get unraveled from the beginning of the second half. Bard meanwhile threatened time and time again. No one penetrated the goalies in the first overtime period. In the second overtime period Al Griefen scored with two minutes left in the game and Ulster wasn't able to come back.

Ulster travels to Post Jr College next Tuesday with a 2-5 record and must win its remaining three games to even their record at 5-5 for the season.

Powerful Pine Bush Squad to Face Onteora Indians

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON Pine Bush High School's powerful football squad takes its 4-0 record to Boiceville this weekend for an Ulster County Athletic League encounter with the Indians of Onteora. The home side posts a 2-2 mark, quite respectable for a team that was wiped out by graduation two years ago and didn't have the sport last season, due to budgetary problems.

However, as good as Onteora is and has been, the edge has to go to the powerful, undefeated Bushmen in this match. In fact, based on past performances, the rest of the UCAL schedule favors the leaders at this time. Onteora had four starters benched for disciplinary reasons Saturday against New Paltz. They will be available to play.

After Saturday's game with the Indians, the league leaders face Marlboro, a .500 club that has it sometimes and doesn't the next, and Walkkill, winless in four outings and coming off a non-competitive year.

It would look from here as if Pine Bush has it locked up, but you can't call it like that until the final gun sounds as any one of the last remaining teams on the schedule can pull an upset. And if Pine Bush is defeated, it will have to be classified as the "Upset of the Year."

Highland Second

Highland is in second place, right behind the Bushmen with a 3-1 record. Their only loss coming at the hands of the leaders. The Highlanders must hang on to keep pace with Pine Bush in the hopes that something major might happen.

It is a tough job for any team to recover after a loss to the leaders in this league. Especially since this year the league is such that one loss can be the eliminator.

However, you might say that the schedule remaining for the Highlanders is not that much tougher than that of the Bushmen and, if the leaders slip, the UCAL could have a set of co-champions on its hands.

Highland takes on New Paltz Saturday, a team that has won one game out of four, and then faces Onteora and Marlboro, both so-so clubs, but a little tougher, in that order, than teams that the leaders face.

Both squads have a host of potential All-League selections. For Pine Bush, quarterback Dennis Derry seems to have the edge on the rest of the signal callers in the league. Derry does it all, pass, run, think and all the other attributes of an all-star Q back. Rich Alexander and Gary Cisco are also high-scoring backfield candidates who could make it a clean sweep for the Bushmen in the backfield positions.

Cos Trapani appears to be the leading candidate for UCAL honors from Highland. Trapani is a fine halfback who not only runs as good or better than anyone else in the UCAL, but also blocks well and can get the extra point with a well-placed boot. Bill Henderson and John Indelicato, along with Doug Geer, could also make the honored 11 from Highland.

Other Games

In other games this weekend, the Rondout Valley Ganders travel to Liberty to take on the high-scoring Redskins. The Ganders, last year's UCAL champs, have played well this year, but graduation and injuries to key personnel have hurt them.

Liberty got off to a poor start, dropping two tilts, but have since put it all together, scoring 93 points while giving up just 11.

Marlboro, complete with Mr. All-Everything, Bruce Partington, has a get-well tilt with winless Walkill, after being trounced by Liberty last week. 40-8. Partington has hit 100+ yards and scored in every game. He can run well, is one of the best blocking backs in the league and can hit the field goal when needed. In fact, he has a 30+ yarder to his credit thus far.

All games start at 1:30 p.m.

Lew Alcindor Beats Hayes

By United Press International

Lew Alcindor won't let Elvin Hayes forget the night of Jan. 20, 1968.

Alcindor, suffering from double vision, felt the heartbreak of his first collegiate defeat that night when Houston, led by Hayes, edged UCLA by two points at the Astrodome. The Bruins lost only one other game during Alcindor's brilliant UCLA career.

The 7-1 1/2 Alcindor gained revenge in the NCAA tournament that year as UCLA clobbered Houston in the semifinals. The college confrontation between two All-Americans ended there as Hayes graduated to the pros.

They met again Wednesday night and it was the NCAA tourney over again as Alcindor outplayed Hayes in leading undefeated Milwaukee to its third victory, a 115-102 decision over San Diego.

In other National Basketball Association action, San Francisco edged Atlanta 94-93, Philadelphia nipped Phoenix 122-119 and Los Angeles stopped Cincinnati 116-109.

The Alcindor-Hayes' initial pro meeting drew a near capacity crowd of 13,643 at San Diego. The "Big A" scored 36 points and collected 19 rebounds as Milwaukee gained a 29-17 first quarter lead and retained command throughout the game. Hayes netted 21 points and had 15 rebounds. Don Kojis scored 26 points for San Diego. 17 of them in the second half as the Rockets closed to within three points twice but couldn't muster the go-ahead baskets.

Rick Didn't Want to, Now, He Can't Play

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry never wanted to play for the Washington Caps and now he doesn't have to, at least for awhile. The decision was made not by the courts but by the collapse of his gimpy left knee.

Barry left the floor in the second quarter of Wednesday night's American Basketball Association game against the Carolina Cougars. Surgery appeared likely to repair the collapsed cartilage in the knee, which would mean the 6-foot-7 forward might be out for the remainder of the season.

Barry wanted to return to the San Francisco Warriors of the National Basketball Association when the Oakland Oaks franchise in the rival ABA was switched to Washington this summer. He took the contract hassle to court and joined the Caps when it was ruled he could not play for the Warriors.

The Cougars went on to win 122-91 Wednesday night. In other ABA games, Miami trimmed the Los Angeles Stars 119-98 and Indiana beat Denver 117-107.

In the NBA, the Los Angeles Lakers whipped Cincinnati 116-109, San Francisco nipped Atlanta 94-93, Philadelphia topped Phoenix 122-119 and Milwaukee beat San Diego 115-102.

Barry had scored two points on a field goal before his knee acted up. He was all-ABA forward last year with a 30-point per game average for the Oaks. He also captured the scoring crown when he played for the Warriors before switching to the ABA.

It was the second straight victory for the Cougars and it put them in the lead in the Eastern Division, one-half game in front of Pittsburgh.

The Cougars spurred ahead at the opening of the second period, with Gene Little scoring 10 points in the drive. Bob Verga was top scorer for Carolina with 25 points. Warren Armstrong was high for the Caps with 20.

Miami, 2-1, trailed the Stars, 3-2, by three points with five minutes to play but Don Sidle dumped in eight straight points to turn the game around. Sidle plunked in 25 points.

Don Freeman, Miami's leading scorer last year, suffered a groin injury in the second period as he went up for a rebound. Doctors couldn't determine immediately how long he would be sidelined.

The Pacers, 2-1, got going quickly with Bob Netolicky scoring 11 points in the first period. Indiana led 31-18 at the end of the first frame and 90-70 after three quarters.

State Slates Winter Schedules

NEW PALTZ
Schedules for three winter sports at State University College have been announced by Joseph Owens, director of athletics.

The basketball varsity opens its schedule with a home encounter against Stony Brook on Dec. 2, with Coach Doug Sheppard again at the helm. Twenty-two games are listed on the slate, including the two game Western Connecticut State Christmas Tournament Dec. 29-30. The first State University New York Athletic Conference (SUNYAC) tilt for the Hawks will be at home against Cortland State on Dec. 6. Owens will coach the wrestling squad which is scheduled to compete in twelve matches this season.

The Hawks grapplers open on Dec. 3 at Oneonta and close at the same site with the annual SUNYAC championship meet on Feb. 28.

A new opponent on the schedule this season is Lehman College from the Bronx. The Lancers will be New Paltz' first SUNYAC encounter.

Andre La Croix Hits Hat Trick for Phila.

By United Press International
Andre LaCroix scored three goals for Philadelphia, St. Louis failed for the 19th straight time to beat Montreal and Boston moved into the Eastern Division lead, but the name of Murray Armstrong, who hasn't worn a National Hockey League uniform in two decades, kept popping up following Chicago's 1-1 tie with New York Wednesday night.

Armstrong, now 52, is the coach of Denver University's ice hockey team and has tutored such outstanding players as Cliff Koroll, Jim Wiste and Keith Magnuson, a trio of NHL rookies instrumental in the Black Hawks' tie, giving them their first point of the season after five straight defeats.

"If it weren't for Coach Armstrong," said Magnuson, whose 18 penalty minutes were a good indication of his aggressive play, "I probably wouldn't be here."

Koroll and Wiste, teammates and roommates for six years, combined for the Black Hawks' only goal and then echoed Magnuson's comment.

"Murray Armstrong saw me playing junior hockey and offered me a scholarship," said Koroll, who flipped in Wiste's rebound for his first NHL goal at 13:23 of the second period.

"Wiste and I got together at Denver, and I've known Magnuson ever longer because he's from my hometown (Saskatoon, Saskatchewan)."

The trio led Denver to the national collegiate title in 1967-68, then while Koroll and Wiste teamed for 60 goals at Dallas in the Central Hockey League last year, Magnuson finished his career with another collegiate champion.

"Magnuson was always on defense," Koroll said. "But Wiste played center and I was right wing on the same line for five years. We played together and talked hockey together, but we haven't been together on the same line this season until this game. I hope we get to work together in the future."

LaCroix's hat trick sparked the Flyers past Toronto, while St. Louis had to rally to tie the Canadiens 3-3, Boston clipped Minnesota 3-2 and Los Angeles defeated Pittsburgh 2-0 in other games.

LaCroix scored one goal in each period. His third goal, at 7:39 of the third period, put the Flyers ahead 4-2 and proved to be the winning goal when Ron Ellis scored the Maple Leafs' third goal with 24 seconds remaining in the game.

WIBC Speaker Addresses Meeting of Women Keglers

Margaret Richards, a representative of the Women's International Bowling Congress (WIBC) headquarters in Columbus, Ohio, will address a meeting of the Kingston Woman's Bowling Association tonight at 8 o'clock at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

The WIBC speaker will explain new rules for the 1969-70 season and answer questions from the floor. Officers of all leagues in the KWBA are requested to attend.

Trout Unlimited Hosts Top Speakers

KINGSTON

Two prominent speakers will address the meeting of the Catskill Mountains Chapter of Trout Unlimited Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Bonanza Branch of the Kingston Savings Bank.

Rob Greene, of the Regional Fish Manager's Office of the State Conservation Department, and Robert O'Connor of the New York City Department of Water Supply, have been invited to discuss the effects of non-augmented flow on the Esopus Creek.

Recent low water conditions on the Esopus have alarmed local sportsmen. The effect on the stream trout and their spawning environment will be discussed, along with a proposal for augmented flow on the Esopus.

Discussion of final plans for the planting of trout eggs in local streams by the Vibert Box Method, also is on the agenda. Approximately 20,000 brown trout eggs will be planted in Catskill Mountain stream beds.

UCAL Sets Annual X-Country Friday

STONE RIDGE

If Jim Lopiano of Rondout Valley Central leads the field in the annual UCAL (Ulster County Athletic League) cross country meet here Friday, he will be following family tradition.

Lopiano's brother, Pat, captured the 1968 individual title and Jim is the odds-on favorite to breeze home first in the 49-runner field over the new 2.5-mile course on the Ulster County Community College campus. Lopiano is undefeated this year. Pine Bush is the defending team champion. Highland High leads the 1969 standings with a perfect 6-0 record. Pine Bush and New Paltz are runnersup with 4-2 records.

Each school will be permitted seven entries.

Lopiano's strongest opposition is expected to come from George Shurter, a Pine Bush sophomore, and Joe Stangl of New Paltz.

Other top threats are John Neilson of Marlboro and John Crawford of Highland.

Another strong contender — Walkkill's Nick Kosteczko — has been removed from contention for disciplinary reasons. Crawford, the Highland High bellwether, has been coming on strong after being slowed down by early season injuries. He has come closest to beating Lopiano, finishing four seconds behind the Rondout Valley ace in their only confrontation this season.

The consensus seems to be that, if anybody can beat Lopiano, it could easily be Crawford. The field is rated excellent and Pine Bush faces a serious challenge in its bids to repeat as champion.

League Standing

|           | Won | Lost |
|-----------|-----|------|
| Highland  | 6   | 0    |
| Pine Bush | 4   | 2    |

Introducing A Used Car Guarantee . . .
It Doesn't Come With Every Car

It's a 100% guarantee. Not one of those "we-pay-half-dollars-you-pay-half-dollars."

And it comes only with used cars that pass the Volkswagen 16 point Safety and Performance test.

This is how it works. When we get a car as a trade-in, we give it the inspection. Check it out completely. If it passes, we tune up, tighten, repair or replace everything that needs tuning up, tightening, repairing or replacing.

Then we guarantee it 100% repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1,000 miles.

What kind of cars get our guarantee? All kinds. Chevs. Fords, Ramblers, VWs. (We get all kinds of trade-ins for new Volkswagens).

So. The next time somebody tries to sell you a used car that's "just like new," ask about the guarantee. Then remember us.

No, our used cars aren't "just like new." No used car can be. But no used cars could be in better shape, either.

Dear Abby

Not Your Wedding, Ma

DEAR ABBY: My son is being married in November and my problem is the selection of bridesmaids that his fiancée has made. Abby, she is having FOUR bridesmaids — all lovely young women, in various stages of pregnancy.

One will be six months along (she is very definitely showing now). Two will be in their seventh month, and the other had better have her overnight case packed and in the car.

The wedding will be one of those fancy church affairs where the wedding party walks down the aisle, and I am wondering what that bridal party will look like with every bridesmaid so obviously heavy with child. They are all married, so there is nothing wrong with it, but why must they be bridesmaids?

Is there some diplomatic way I can talk my son's fiancée out of this? Or should I let it go?

WONDERING IN ATLANTA

DEAR WONDERING: A bride selects her dearest friends for her bridesmaids. Let it go.

DEAR ABBY: We are two teen-age girls who would like to air a complaint for most teen-age baby sitters.

In our town, baby sitting pays 50 cents an hour. This is the same pay our mother's received when THEY baby-sat as teenagers. As you know, the cost of living has gone up considerably since then.

We are expected to be mother, father, cook, referee, nursemaid and playmate.

We think the pay should be raised to 75 cents an hour before midnight and $1.00 afterwards. How do we go about getting better pay?

UNDERPAID SITTER

DEAR UNDERPAID: Refuse to sit! (Sitters can hardly stage a "sit in") Sitters of the world, unite! If you get a boot in the bustle, all you can lose is your seating capacity!

DEAR ABBY: We are a farm family and our kids have breeding animals bred in the breeding pens since they were old enough to perch on a pole fence. The older ones are now in high school and have a right to know enough about human reproduction to discuss it sensibly, and enough about contraceptives to make sound moral judgments on their use and abuse.

But except for general comments, I don't intend to give them any lectures on "sex" as it relates to husband and wife because I can't explain the love that grows with experience. (Nor can anyone else). It would reduce their mother's bedroom to the level of a breeding pen.

At 34, my wife is young and pretty — and warm. Our lives are full because we have taught our children to respect human life, civil law, and the privacy of their parents' bedroom. But "sex" they will have to learn about in school — or wherever it is taught. The question is not whether sex should be taught at school, but "How can the course be improved?"

FATHER OF SIX
TROUT CREEK,
MONTANA

CONFIDENTIAL TO LINDA: Send the DEAR DOTTY letter back to your sailor and tell him that your name is LINDA, not DOTTY. Either he has a peculiar sense of humor or he sent DOTTY a DEAR LINDA letter. In any case, he sounds like a wolf in ship's clothing!

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. (Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 10:24 a. m. WKNY-1490).

It's Wildlife Cycle Now

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Show business has cycles in which a hit is followed by similar project or frank imitations. The movies always do this. Television too. Since the ratings success of CBS-TV's National Geographic specials, we've been suffocated by wildlife shows. It's as if Tarzan country were suddenly commandeered by the American Civil Liberties Union.

Television, at any rate, loves these wildlife programs. Good ratings. No controversy. Nice picture postcard stuff. All on the side of decency and fine intentions. Who could ask for anything more? The only problem, of course, is that it's the same story told again and again and again and again.

A lot of people, you see, are fed up with looking at the home screen and seeing drugs and student protests and civil disorder and demonstrations at the Democratic Convention and "hippies" (meaning anyone who doesn't look like everybody else). And a lot of these people who are fed up are certain that many of these things would just go away if only television didn't show them.

Let's get a few things straight here. This is a great country, and programs that depict this with force are a joy to behold. But it's not as if there haven't been attempts by the networks to tell this story before. There have been countless video hours of American history, famous figures and pure Americana—and almost invariably, they have received mediocre ratings because the

Hubert and a Big Deal— Improper Conduct Scored

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey intervened repeatedly with high U.S. and Indian officials from 1961 through 1964 to help a Minnesota firm in a $2.3 million deal for which the company is now being sued for fraud.

This was disclosed Wednesday in records barred by the Justice Department after Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, accused Humphrey of "highly improper conduct for his role in this shoddy affair." Humphrey was a U.S. senator at the time.

The case involved Napco Industries Inc. of Minneapolis, which set up a company in India that, in turn, applied for a $2.3 million loan from the Agency for International Development.

With Humphrey's help, the loan was approved, and the Indian concern used the money to order equipment from Napco, only to completely default on repayment.

The government's suit filed against Napco in Detroit federal court last year, charged the Indian company refused to pay back the loan because it never received some equipment and machinery that did arrive was inferior.

The government claimed the machinery actually had a fair market value of only $909,000. The suit demanded that Napco repay the loan along with double damages to the government.

Gross has criticized Humphrey for his activities on behalf of Napco on numerous occasions. He raised the issue on the House floor again on the basis of Humphrey's letters and telegrams, introduced as exhibits in the pending government suit.

Citing the "new evidence," the Iowa Republican charged "Napco with its powerful ties to Humphrey, was able to hoodwink the Agency for International Development into paying a tremendously inflated price for its virtually obsolete, worn-out gear manufacturing plant, which was then dumped on a group of unsuspecting investors in India."

In the past, Humphrey repeatedly denied any wrongdoing in connection with the matter and insisted he acted only on the basis of a U.S. senator helping a constituent.

The government records made no suggestion Humphrey profited personally from the AID loan, but they did show he vouched for the integrity of Napco and its president, Max E. Rappaport.

Rappaport himself wrote Humphrey on at least one occasion to complain the senator had not done enough for him despite his fund-raising activities on Humphrey's behalf.

Among other things, the Nap-co president was upset because Humphrey did not persuade the Air Force to release his son from the service as a hardship case.

He also complained about difficulty in getting the AID loan.

Thereafter, the records show, Humphrey contacted such U.S. officials as George W. Ball, then undersecretary of state for economic affairs, William Gaud, deputy AID administrator; AID Director Fowler Hamilton and Fran Coffin, director of the Development Loan Fund.

Each of the letters asked favorable consideration be given to the loan application. The bid was approved in June 1962.

Even after that time, Humphrey continued to exert his influence on Napco's behalf, sending telegrams to Indian officials and the U.S. embassy in New Delhi, after the enterprise floundered and new loans were sought.

U.S. Toll in Viet Down Again

SAIGON (UPI)—U.S. headquarters said today 78 GIs died in Vietnam combat last week, the same number slain in fighting during all of 1963 before the American buildup began.

It was the fourth successive week that the battle toll had kept U.S. deaths below the 100 mark, a level never broken last year. Not since December of 1966 has the death rate been this low.

Another 684 Americans were wounded last week, 299 of them seriously enough to require hospitalization.

Again, South Vietnamese losses—301 killed and 878 wounded—were much higher than the U.S. casualties, an indicator of the Saigon government's progress in assuming more of the fighting.

Military spokesmen said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese lost 1,624 men killed, their fewest battle fatalities this year and another result of the battle lull that began six weeks ago.

The U.S. death toll was a slight decrease from the 82 GIs slain the previous week and equaled the number of Americans who died in Vietnam in all of 1963, the year before big U.S. units began arriving.

Since Jan. 1, 1961, a total of 39,047 U.S. servicemen have been killed in Vietnam and 255,531 have suffered wounds.

The lull in fighting continued overnight, headquarters said, with scattered fighting killing 163 Communist troops. American losses were put at 11 killed and 34 wounded.

For the second successive day, U.S. B52 bombers raided within 500 yards of the Demilitarized Zone today, hitting what spokesmen called guerrilla base camps and supply areas.

Eruptions from the 500- and 750-pound bombs in the two early morning strikes sent clouds of dirt and debris into the air over the target area, the same place where the Stratoforts raided Wednesday.

U.S. headquarters said this area is the center of a new buildup by North Vietnamese troops, started since American Marines began leaving the area in the process of being withdrawn from the war.

Troopers of the 101st Airborne Division, sent north to fill in part of the void left by the departing Marines, came under mortar attack there Wednesday and reported "light" losses in the 30-round barrage.

Three of the U.S. servicemen died and five were wounded in a Marine battle with Communist troops near An Hoa on the northern coast. Wednesday, spokesmen said, three guerrillas were killed.

Other B52 Stratoforts flew four overnight raids, hitting targets in the Central Highlands and in the provinces bordering Cambodia northwest of Saigon, according to American communiques.

Chile—Garbage Trucks and Victory

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — President Eduardo Frei may go down in history as the man who faced a rebellious army regiment with a battalion of garbage trucks and won.

The tall, soft-spoken Chilean president ended the defiance in 24 hours of quiet, orderly negotiations, then announced his victory in an eight-minute speech to the nation.

The words must have rung home to the military government in Panama, Brazil, Bolivia, Argentina and Peru as Frei declared: "In Chile, the armed forces do not accept indiscipline and the people do not tolerate coups d'etat."

Leaders of the short-lived rebellion insisted they were not trying to overthrow Frei. Instead they demanded salary increases and better equipment and staged a sit-in at the headquarters barracks of the Tacna Regiment.

But to a lawyer and firm believer in constitutionality like Frei, their action was "sedition." He called in army units from outlying provinces and appealed to the students, unions, political parties, Congress and the people for support.

First to arrive on the scene was a convoy of garbage trucks which rined the presidential Moneda Palace and blocked all streets leading to it.

Frei chose to avoid a bloody confrontation and instead decided to negotiate with the rebels. Frei, 58, called on two close friends and a trusted general to negotiate a peace agreement with the leader of the rebellion, Brig. Gen. Roberto Viaux.

The general was Alfredo Mahn, commander of the Santiago garrison, a senior officer who had Frei's confidence and who had served many years close to Viaux.

Mahn met four times with Viaux before agreement was reached at 4:30 a.m. Wednesday.

As Mahn prepared to leave, holding in his hand the agreement that Viaux and the other rebels would submit to military justice, the two generals shook hands and went into the traditional warm Latin abrazo, or embrace.

Communiques issued simultaneously by the government and under Viaux's signature told the story.

Viaux was put under house arrest and retired from the armed forces. The other rebels were confined to barracks, awaiting military justice. But a civilian defense minister was appointed as the rebels had demanded.

The rebels repeated their loyalty to the president and to constitutional government.

AWOL Charged

Kingston police took two area servicemen in custody Wednesday and booked them as being AWOL from the Army. They were identified as 24-year-old Wilbur Delany of 350 Broadway, and Daniel F. Van Leuven, 20, who resides in Port Ewen. They were held pending the arrival of military authorities, police said.

Top Enlisted Men Called on Graft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators called four top-rated Army enlisted men to testify today on charges they ran a Mafia-like military graft ring, although all had said they would refuse to answer questions.

Prime target of questions by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff's investigations subcommittee was Sgt. Maj. William O. Woodruff, once the Army's highest ranking enlisted man and a leading figure in the probe.

Woodruff and the other sergeants had said they would invoke the 5th Amendment protection against self-incrimination when asked about accusations they ramrodded an operation that, among other things, skimmed thousands of dollars from service clubs they ran in Vietnam, Germany and the United States.

Before turning to the sergeants, the panel Wednesday probed into charges that retired

Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner, once Army provost marshal, had covered up for Woodruff.

"I never protected Woodruff or any other man, regardless of how it looks two years later," Turner testified.

This led Ribicoff, D Conn., to say: "Gen. Turner has denied all the testimony by other witnesses that he was instrumental on this 'coverup' operation. He has told us that he took various actions and issued certain orders and directives because he viewed allegations against Sgt. Maj. Woodruff as groundless and unfounded."

"In so doing," Ribicoff said, "it is clear that he acted against the repeated recommendations of his trusted and valued subordinate... who have testified they wished to conduct a full and thorough investigation into Woodruff's activities."

Turner justified his barring use by Ft. Benning, Ga., investigators of a file opened on Woodruff and other sergeants in Augsburg, Germany, by saying the case had been closed by the local commander and none of the allegations could be proved.

But he did acknowledge telling subordinates to remove Woodruff's name from the investigative file at Ft. Benning if allegations against him were found to be unsubstantiated.

Turner's testimony about another facet of the investigation Wednesday resulted in Ribicoff asking the Justice Department to look into possible perjury by the former military policeman.

He injected the perjury angle into the hearing after Turner testified under oath Chicago and Kansas City police gave him guns on a personal basis with the understanding he was free to use or sell them as he saw fit.

But chief Clarence Kelley and other Kansas City police officers testified they would not have given Turner the confiscated guns had he not been provost marshal general.

Merchant Fleet Proposal Goes To Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon hands Congress today a long-range multibillion plan designed to replace the nation's aging merchant marine with a fleet of fast, efficient, newly designed steam ships.

In his message, Nixon is asking Congress for $300 million to subsidize construction of 30 new merchant ships a year for the next decade. Under the present program, ship construction is down to 10 a year.

Tied to the Nixon program is a plea to the maritime industry to invest about $4.5 billion during the next decade. The American merchant fleet is now down to 963 ships, placing it sixth in the world standings and one step below the Soviet Union.

Nixon's program also sees an end to the controversial operating subsidy program for the new ships. Gaining more speed as a result of newly designed holds, and innovations like containerization, the ships are expected to be up to five times more efficient than the present fleet, two-thirds of which are more than 20 years old.

with astroturf and the famous scoreboard which paid homage to the visitors with a couple of animated routines.

One of them, depicting an argument between an umpire and a manager, revealed domestic life in the Soviet Union may not be that much different than here.

"I sounds like a talk between husband and wife," said a laughing Maj. Gen. Georgy Beregovoy while his deadpan partner, scientist cosmonaut Konstantin Feoktistov, looked on silently.

The astronauts attended a private dinner—complete with vodka cocktails—Wednesday night with their American hosts, Col. and Mrs. Frank Borman. They planned a news conference for today before leaving for Anaheim, Calif., to attend a dinner of the American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics.

The cosmonauts spent 35 minutes in the domed sports stadium and managed to cover everything from the artificial grass to astro owner Judge Roy Hofheinz's private domain on the ninth level. Beregovoy asked Hofheinz how many sporting events were held inside the dome per year, how many tons of air conditioning were needed to cool the structure, and how the scoreboard worked.

Down the playing field, Hofheinz passed out Houston Astro baseball caps to the cosmonauts and Beregovoy's wife Lydia and 17-year-old son Victor. Beregovoy donned his cap; Feoktistov didn't.

The cosmonauts shouted "oh boy" in English as they flew to the moon in a simulator at the Manned Spacecraft Center. They landed on the moon in good fashion but failed by eight feet to make the necessary rendezvous and docking maneuvers after liftoff from the lunar surface. Flight controllers said a faulty computer was to blame.

The only time Feoktistov displayed any outward enthusiasm in the day's events was when he looked at moon dust through a microscope at the space center.

As Mahn prepared to leave,
